TRONDHEIM SEA BATTLE RAGES

British Close In on Germans at Narvik

REPORT LOSS OF FIVE MORE GERMAN SHIPS

Official Confirmation Lacking On Reported Developments In Norwegian Battles.

NAZI GARRISON CUT OFF

Sailors From Sunken Destroyer Launch Land Expedition In Norse Territory.

By PETER C. RHODES
(UP Staff Correspondent)

NORWEGIAN GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, NARVIK FRONT — Reports reaching Norwegian headquarters today asserted that British and Norwegian forces are closing in on Narvik, British destroyers have sunk five more German destroyers and the German garrison has been cut off from outside communication.

There was no official confirmation of this report from British or other sources. Latest British advices on the Narvik situation were those telling of the unsuccessful naval attack Tuesday. Berlin yesterday asserted that two more British destroyers had been lost at Narvik but indicated they were sunk by mines.

(London authoritative sources reported today that sailors from the British destroyer Hardy which was beached after Tuesday's action had taken to their boats with full arms and appeared to have struck off into Norwegian territory on an expedition of their own.)

I spent most of yesterday from early afternoon until midnight in the Norwegian general headquarters for the Narvik front which have been established here in the steep hills which command the port of Narvik.

Commander Elated.

Constant reports were coming in on the situation and there was obvious elation in the manner in which Major Olmdal, commander of the forces, received latest advices.

Separated For 45 Years, Mansfield Woman Divorced

Judge C. H. Huston had decided today in common pleas court that absence for 45 years is grounds for divorce so he granted a decree to Mrs. Stella Hafner, 30 Daisy street.

Mrs. Hafner, who long ago gave up hope of ever seeing her husband again, filed her divorce action several weeks ago, charging wilful absence.

Her husband, Frederick Hafner, left her in 1895, five years after the couple was married. She never heard from him after he left. The couple had two children.

Mrs. Hafner said she sought the divorce decree to make it possible for her to buy a property and have the deed in her name.

In granting the decree, Judge Huston ordered Mrs. Hafner to pay the court costs and then gave her a judgment for the amount against Hafner, probably with no expectation that she will ever collect it.

TANKER SUNK

Owners of Swedish Boat Say It Was Torpedoed.

STOCKHOLM—(INS)—The 9,076-ton Swedish tanker Sveaborg was sunk north of Scotland today while en route to Sweden from the United States with a cargo of oil. The crew of 34 was saved and taken to a Scotch harbor.

Representatives of the owners of the Sveaborg in London said they understood the vessel had been torpedoed.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—A heart attack apparently caused the death of S. L. Chaney, 43, of Worthington, a claims referee for the state industrial commission who was found dead in his automobile in a downtown parking lot yesterday.

12,000 Richland School Children to Join Millions In Crusade to Help War Victims

More than 12,000 public school children in Mansfield and Richland county will join millions of American children over the nation in the "Children's Crusade for Children" during the week of April 22-30.

The Mansfield board of education lifted its ban against the collection of funds through the public schools this week to permit the crusade to be carried on, not only for the benefit of homeless war children of the world, but because of its 'lesson in generosity" and educational aspect.

W. L. Miller, superintendent of Mansfield public schools, Boyd Robinson, superintendent of the county schools, and C. G. Keck, head of the Shelby schools, all expressed the belief that the crusade was a "good thing because it brings home to American children the fact that they are the luckiest children in the world: that the poorest child in America is infinitely better off than any of the children in war-stricken countries."

During the crusade teachers and educators of America will be asked to drive home this fact to their pupils—that a democratic form of government is the greatest safeguard to their happiness.

The crusade was approved recently by the American Association of School Administrators at its annual convention in St. Louis, and co-operating with it are many youth organizations, including Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, Girl Reserves, Hi-Y and 4-H clubs over the country.

Nationally the crusade is headed by Dorothy Canfield Fisher, American writer, and William Allen White, veteran newspaperman of Emporia, Kan.

It will not be conducted as a drive for funds, but as a "gift offering" of pennies. There will be no urging of children to contribute as it is strictly a voluntary offering, prompted entirely by generosity and sympathy for

FLASH BLIZZARD ICES HIGHWAYS, STALLS TRAFFIC

Mansfield Bundles Up Again As Mercury Skids to 18, Record Low for Day.

Mansfielders, who thought they were done with winter for a while, dug out of nearly two inches of snow and shivered in 18-degree temperatures today after a flash blizzard swept winter back into Ohio. It was the coldest April 12 on record here.

The mercury fell 37 degrees in a few hours last night as the storm struck from the northwest, changing rain to sleet and then to snow. Most of Ohio was covered with snow today and roads in the northern part of the state were in a dangerous condition.

Striking suddenly, the wintry blast caught the county road department unprepared and it had no snow plows to put on the roads last night. County Engineer Howard Sword said the county's five plows had been dismantled for the summer.

State and county highway departments and the city street department had their emergency crews out most of the night, however, spreading salt and cinders on slippery hills and curves.

The snow, which packed quickly under traffic last night, melted today, leaving a sea of slush on streets and roads. State highway patrolmen said traffic was tied up for a time early today on route 42 at the Ashland hill and on route 30 east of Mansfield when

GREENLAND AID

F. D. R. Prepares Relief But Dodges Monroe Doctrine.

WASHINGTON —(UP)— President Roosevelt declared today that Greenland is more closely related to North America than to Europe and proposed that the American Red Cross organize relief for Greenland residents this summer if Danish supply ships are unable to reach them.

The president said, however, that questions of whether the Monroe Doctrine applies to Greenland, a Danish colony, are premature. He said that as yet he is considering Greenland problems on a humanitarian rather than a political basis.

Hear Appeal for Liquorless Club for High School Pupils

City officials and representatives of civic and welfare organizations had before them today a plea from four Senior high school students asking aid in establishing some means of after school recreation for themsedves and fellow students.

In their conference yesterday, the students expressed a desire for a liquorless night club. Such an organization, they said, is the desire of the student body. Students want a place where they can dance, have entertainment and the other devises of a regular night club, without the sale of liquor.

The students, all from Senior high public speaking classes, were William Finck, Sandy Lake, Gene Lantz and Jack Hahne. Mayor W. J. Locke invited to sit in on the conference Floyd Dent, chairman of the city recreation committee, Rev. Hayes M. Braker, Rev. David N. Roller, Miss Margaret West, executive secretary of the Y. W. C. A.; Ralph Chapman, Y. M. C. A. secretary; Eleanor Bond, secretary of Girl Scouts; and Mrs. Osborn Meese, formerly head of the Council of Parent-Teacher association.

Mayor Locke said today that he was interested in helping the students work out something practical, but that one of the stumbling blocks is the cost of operating such a place with the small revenue from the sale of soft drinks. The city is unable to help

ONE KILLED AT GREENWICH, 9 OTHERS INJURED

Driver Dies as Train Hits Transport Truck; Nurses Hurt Near Medina.

A transport truck driver was killed and nine other persons, including two Mansfielders were injured in traffic accidents on Ohio's slush and ice-coated highways last night and this morning.

Leo Allen of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, was instantly killed at 8:56 a. m. today when his truck was struck by the Big Four's Southwestern limited at a grade crossing on U. S. route 224 in Greenwich, 20 miles north of Mansfield in Huron county.

Witnesses said the loaded freight truck was carried 500 feet down the tracks and wreckage was strewn along the right of way. Traffic on the highway was blocked for several hours this morning while wrecking crews cleared away the demolished tractor and van.

Authorities said the truck was owned by the Allied Van lines and was following another truck of the same company when the accident occurred.

Two Mansfield nurses, Mrs. L. P. McNeil, of 36 North Diamond street, and Mrs. R. E. Rogers, of 255 Marion avenue, were injured, neither seriously, shortly before noon today when the car in which they were riding skidded on the slushy highway on route 18, three miles east of Medina and rolled over.

Employed in the public health department, they were en route to Akron to attend a convention of the Ohio State Nurses' association.

In another accident one mile south of Lexington on U. S. route 42, shortly after noon today at least four persons, all unidentified, were reported injured.

SUITOR CHARGED

Steubenville Man Held For First Degree Murder.

STEUBENVILLE —(AP)— Julius Odorizzi, 53, is under indictment on first degree murder charges in the March 9 slaying of Mrs. Thelma Miller, 29, shot in the back as she watched a night club floor show. Odorizzi formerly was her suitor.

The Jefferson county grand jury also indicted Mike Gernich, 45, Bradley miner, on second-degree murder charges in the ax killing of his neighbor John Frank, 50. Sheriff Robert Bates said Gernich admitted the slaying but claimed self defense.

GUNMEN SLUG SCHMUTZLER, STEAL $1,140

Downtown Cafe Operator Felled by Blackjack Blow In Business District.

2 GUNMEN ACCOST HIM

Seize Money Pouch But Fail To Get Several Thousands More Victim Carried.

Felled by a blow from a blackjack, Philip Schmutzler, 52, of 630 Lexington avenue, was robbed of $1,140 at 10:45 a. m. today by two bandits at the corner of Main street and Library court.

The two men, one of whom brandished a gun, accosted Schmutzler as he was returning from the Richland Trust company with an estimated several thousand dollars on his person. He was taking the money to Schmutzler's cafe, in which he is a partner, to cash checks for Westinghouse employes whose payday is today.

Schmutzler told police he thought the holdup was a joke and started to walk on when the men demanded the money. One of the gunmen, he said, lashed out with a blackjack, striking him on the head. Schmutzler fell to the sidewalk, bleeding from a scalp wound.

Seizing the black leather pouch containing $1140 which Schmutzler was carrying under his arm, the pair fled west on Library court to Walnut street where a confederate waited for them in a parked car with the motor running.

According to Police Chief Meade K. Bates the trio sped east out of the city. They were driving a late model maroon sedan bearing either New York or Pennsylvania license tags D3X409, Bates said.

A group of bystanders gathered quickly at the Main street corner and several of them were able to give descriptions of the bandits to police. A pedestrian who saw the men emerge from Library court and leap into the car called police headquarters to report the

UP TO $625,000

County's Tax Receipts Soar As $18,000 More Pours In.

The county's real estate tax collections today climbed nearer to the six-year record forecast by County Treasurer John E. Kolb with receipts yesterday totaling more than $18,000 bringing the total to $625,000.

Additional receipts within the next few days are expected to push the first-half collection well past last year's $640,000.

A spurt yesterday put the personal tax receipts up to $106,000, more than the anticipated collection for the first half of the year.

Meanwhile the Mansfield board of education today requested another advance draw of at least $20,000 against the real estate collection, Deputy Auditor Arthur S. Beck said. The schools already have received $95,000 of the amount due them for the first half of the year.

Five Nazi Ships Combat British At Norway Port

Famed Pocket Battleship Reported to Be Leading German Fleet; London Announces Skaggerak, Kattegat Mined to Hem In Enemy.

(By Associated Press)

STOCKHOLM—Five German warships, including a pocket battleship, were reported today off Trondheim, Norwegian port where the British are said to have attacked by air and sea.

Advices reaching Stockholm—the only Scandinavian capital free of German control—said the Germans occupying Trondheim had mined all bridges, apparently to forestall any assault by a British landing force.

The Germans were believed to have about 1,200 men in all at Trondheim.

The Norwegian radio at Olesund reported a naval battle between British and German sea forces and British war planes were said to have bombed German warships in Trondheim fjord.

The pocket battleship was identified tentatively as the Luetzow—formerly the Deutschland—sister ship of the scuttled Admiral Graf Spee.

She and the Admiral Scheer are the only two fighters in that 10,000-ton class left in the Nazi fleet.

The Germans, apparently strengthened by reinforcements reaching Norway despite the British effort to isolate the army of occupation, broadened their hold on Norway with land and aerial thrusts.

Swedish authorities, meanwhile, looking to this country's own security, mined more than 100 miles of Sweden's west coast from within 30 miles of the Norwegian frontier near Oslo south to Varberg, about midway down the Kattegat opposite the coast of Denmark.

King Haakon and Crown Prince Olaf were said to have ducked to cover with only three minutes leeway yesterday before a German air squadron bombed Bybergsund, near the Swedish frontier, and apparently a headquarters of Norway's army.

This headquarters is believed now to have been shifted again since the air attack by five German planes which bombed and machine gunned the village.

The whole Norwegian administration was said to have been concentrated there in crowded quarters, using chairs and the floor for beds and sharing a common table.

Both Elverum, 35 miles to the south, and Hamar, where the gov-

COUP: Kattegat Mined by British Navy, London Says

(By International News Service)

LONDON—The British navy has mined the Skagerrak and the Kattegat, immobilizing the German fleet in the Baltic and severing sea communications with the Nazi expeditionary force in Norway, it was announced today.

A brief admiralty announcement of the mine-laying was followed by an official statement that no naval engagement occurred in the Kattegat today.

This was taken as an indication that the British naval coup had succeeded for the time being at least in tying up Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's navy.

Reports were current throughout the day of continuance or renewal of the battle which raged for three days in the Kattegat.

Official circles explained that these probably arose from the fact that there had been "a good deal of depth-charging" in the Kattegat area.

This statement itself was not augmented, but indicated a determined attempt by the British navy to blow out of the water any German submarines which may be lurking in the areas surrounding Denmark.

It was recalled that First Lord of the Admiralty Winston Churchill announced in the house of commons yesterday that all vessels in the Kattegat would be "destroyed."

BALKANS: Central Europe's Neutrals Get Nazi Warning

(By Associated Press)

BUCHAREST, Rumania—Balkan capitals heard with anxiety today reports that Germany had warned southeastern trade circles that they would invite action which might extend to the military sphere if they accorded the Allies any favors detrimental to the reich's interests.

The warning, which said Germany would regard as "unneutral" any move tending to cut off her flow of vital supplies from the Balkans, was given weight by rumors that more than 100,000 Nazi troops had been concentrated near the Hungarian border and nearly 200,000 more at Cracow in conquered Poland.

Two other overnight developments contributed to the growing tension in southeastern Europe, long fearful of involvement in the war:

In Belgrade automobiles operated by unidentified persons sped through the streets scattering leaflets warning the Yugoslavs "do not resist Germany if you value your freedom."

In Bucharest a German munitions expert and a German girl, identified by police as Nazi spies, were shot to death by an assailant officially described as "the agent of another foreign power."

Rumanian authorities feared that the killings, which took place in the shadow of Bucharest's arch of triumph, might lead to international complications.

The trade warning to the Balkans was said by usually reliable sources to have been delivered orally to trade leaders in southeastern countries—rather than to the governments—by Nazi representatives.

Meanwhile, a German news bulletin asserted that Germany, demanded the right to send gunboats down the Danube river to protect oil and wheat shipments against "British sabotage," had reached a full understanding with the Danubian nations that "river shipping will be safeguarded with all means."

'Clean Politics' Extension to Primaries Proposed

HANCOCK PLAN STRIKES BLOW AT MACHINES

Would Prevent Party Purges As Tried by Roosevelt In 1939 Campaigns.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — A proposal to extend the Hatch "clean politics" act to include primary as well as general elections was laid before the house judiciary committee today by Rep. Clarence Hancock (R.) N. Y.

Adoption of the proposal, Hancock said, would strike a blow at machine politics in primaries and thus weaken their control over party machinery. The projected provision also would help to prevent "purge" campaigns such as the one conducted by President Roosevelt last year, he added.

The Handcock proposal would apply not only to the Hatch act, which became law last year, but also to the new Hatch bill now being considered by the committee.

Under the original Hatch act, political activity by federal employes, except policy-making officers, was forbidden. Primaries, however, were little affected. The new Hatch bill extends the original political ban on federal workers to include state and local workers paid wholly, or partly, by federal funds.

Constitutional.

"Since congress is laying down a condition in the Hatch act, it is clearly constitutional to forbid activity by employes in primaries as well as in elections," said Hancock. "This is true even though congress cannot control primary elections.

"My point is that in many southern states the primary election is the only real election. Thus, to make the Hatch act really effective primaries must be included."

An appeal has been made to the judiciary committee to exempt professors and teachers from the Hatch act. A strong "teachers' lobby" is backing the plea. The new Hatch bill, it was explained, would affect hundreds of professors and teachers in land-grant colleges and universities and vocational education schools aided by federal funds.

While the judiciary committee has unexpectedly delayed approval of the Hatch act extension bill, a showdown may be forced next Tuesday when the measure again will be considered. The senate has passed the legislation.

Hope to Settle Rubber Dispute By Negotiation

AKRON—(AP)—Hopes for settlement of the strike at General Tire and Rubber Co. rose today as David T. Roadley, department of labor conciliator, scheduled negotiating conferences between officials of the company and the CIO United Rubber Workers, who called the strike.

Management and union leaders conferred yesterday without reaching any agreement. Joseph Childs, union president, said H. L. Barnes, General's labor relations director, agreed to re-examine the company agreement with the union to "see if there is any foundation for the charges."

(Childs charged th ecompany "chiseled" on pay rates and violated contract procedure for settling grievances.)

Childs also reported Barnes declared he would not discuss pay-rate grievances "until everyone goes back to work." Childs estimated 1,100 of 1,200 General employes were idle.

Up and Down THE STREET

Maybe it's the idea of candy and molasses that makes boys interested in sugar camps, but a Mansfield father said he got no rest this week until he took his small sons on an inspection tour of the Monroe township camp that was featured in The News-Journal last Sunday. The boys couldn't figure out how sugar and syrup were made from a tree, he said, and they were more interested in the simple operations than they would be in a trip through a big factory.

The fact that their chartered buses ran into a blizzard and one of the worst driving nights of the year, didn't keep members of the Crescendo Music club from having a hilarious time on the return trip from Cleveland last night. These 47 Senior high school students and their adult escorts made the trip to hear "Carmen" by the Metropolitan Opera company. It took almost four hours to make the return trip, and they didn't get into Mansfield until 4:10 a. m.. Because of the precarious condition of the roads, the drivers took plenty of time. They stopped en route to permit the youngsters to get out and take on a load of sandwiches and the wide-awake passengers sang and made merry during the entire trip. But there were some sleepy-eyed students at the late morning classes today.

Even the snow fails to halt activities at the Mansfield Braves' spring training camp. Manager Dewey Stover took his pitching prospects out to the horse barns at the Fairgrounds at noon today for warming up sessions. With some 20 hurlers on tap to fight for berths on the Ohio State league team, Stover has to work fast to have his moundsmen in shape when the infielders and outfielders arrive for their training period Wednesday. Stover hopes to send the boys outdoors by Monday.

William Sockman, Ex-Resident of Fredericktown, Dead.

FREDERICKTOWN — William Sockman, 22, son of Rev. Ralph W. Sockman, New York City churchman who was born in this community, jumped or fell to his death yesterday from a window of his parents seventh-floor Park Avenue home, an Associated Press dispatch from New York said today.

The father, who left here a number of years ago, was in Texas at the time of the tragedy and his wife was on Long Island. Rev. Sockman is pastor of Christ Methodist church of New York City.

Young Sockman was a former Harvard student. Detectives quoted his aunt, the only other person in the apartment at the time of the tragedy, as saying that the boy was forced by nervous disorders to relinquish studies after two years at Harvard.

In his pockets were a receipt for his enrollement at Columbia university on Feb. 6, and a check from his father for $117, dated April 10.

SUES RAILROAD IN TRAIN DEATH

Administrator Bases $40,000 Damage Suit on Ordinance Regulating Speed.

Alleged violation by the Pennsylvania Railroad company of a city ordinance regulating the speed of trains and requiring signals or watchmen at crossings is the issue in a $40,000 damage suit which had been filed today in common pleas court by Earl A. Nist, Mansfield, administrator of the estate of the late Harold W. Maye.

Mr. Maye, who was an employe of the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company, was killed last April 13, 1939 at the East Fifth street crossing by a fast passenger train.

Naming the railroad company defendant, Nist seeks the damage judgment for the widow and two small children of Mr. Maye.

Nist contends in his petition that there was no watchman at the crossing at the time of the accident, the train was traveling at excessive speed, and that a box car on a siding obstructed the view of approaching trains.

An old city ordinance limits the speed of trains through the city to eight miles an hour. The ordinance also requires that signals be installed or watchmen be placed at crossings.

The accident involved in the suit occurred early in the morning before the watchman came on duty.

Atty's C. H. Henkel and John C. O'Donnell are counsel for Nist.

SENATE RIVALS HIT NEW DEAL

White And Burton Criticize Economic Policies.

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Congressman Dudley White, Norwalk, and Mayor Harold Burton of Cleveland pressed their campaigns for the Republican nomination for U. S. senator today with criticism of the New Deal.

White, in Newark, lashed out at Roosevelt administration spending, declaring "the administration has increased federal indebtedness more than 100 per cent."

Burton, speaking in Springfield and Urbana, declared "the New Deal economic experiments have failed and the Democratic party cannot free itself from them."

CATHOLIC DIGNITARIES HONOR GALION PRIEST AT DINNER HERE

(Picture on Page 10)

As a part of the celebration marking the golden jubilee of the priesthood of Rev. Father A. H. Schreiner of St. Joseph's Catholic church at Galion, a dinner in his honor was held yesterday at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. It was attended by 50 relatives and friends and Catholic dignitaries of the Toledo diocese.

The dinner followed morning services and solemn high mass at the Galion church at which Msgr. R. C. Goebel of St. Peter's Catholic church of Mansfield was the jubilee preacher.

Speakers during the dinner were the Most Rev. Karl J. Alter, bishop of the Toledo diocese, and Msgr. F. A. Schreiber of Akron, formerly of Mansfield, who both gave brief talks in which they congratulated Rev. Schreiner on his 50 years in priesthood. Rev. Schreiner also spoke. Msgr. Goebel acted as toastmaster.

Other Monsignors from the diocese who attended the dinner are Msgr. Henry E. Boesken of Toledo, Msgr. J. T. O'Connell, vicar general of the Toledo diocese, and Msgr. Zierolf of Sandusky. Relatives and friends of Rev. Schreiner from Brooklyn, N. Y., and Galion were other guests.

Solemn high mass yesterday morning opened the 50th anniversary celebration which concludes with a testimonial dinner at the Galion Elks' club at 6:30 p. m. Sunday with Rev. Father William Killoran of St. Patrick's church, Galion, as the principal speaker.

Last night children of St. Joseph's Catholic school in Galion presented a program entertainment in Rev. Schreiner's honor. Rev. Schreiner will be the celebrant for the solemn high mass for the parish at 8 a. m. Sunday with Rev. Joseph E. Maerder of Immaculate Conception church of Bellevue, as the jubilee preacher. Rev. Maerder is a native of Galion.

Born Aug. 31, 1866 in Brooklyn, N. Y., Rev. Schreiner was ordained a priest of the Catholic Church in the chapel of St. Mary's Seminary, April 12, 1890 by the Most Rev. Richard Gilmour, then bishop of the Cleveland Diocese. He sung his first mass the following day in St. Peter's church, Cleveland.

He came to Galion 41 years ago to take up the pastorate of St. Joseph's church.

WIDOW, 82, DIES

Mrs. Marie Hiller Succumbs At Home Near Ashland.

ASHLAND—Mrs. Anna Maria Hiller, 82, widow of Frank Hiller, died Thursday afternoon at her home three miles southwest of here after a lingering illness.

She was a native of Richland county and was born on Nov. 3, 1857. She was married to Charles Sattler, who died in 1889 and two years later was united in marriage to Frank Hiller. She was a member of the United Brethren church of Paradise Hill.

Surviving are a son by her first marriage, Bert Sattler of Washington, D. C., and two daughters by her second marriage, Miss Anna Hiller at home, and Mrs. Samuel Boals of Ashland; five grandchildren; and a brother, C. W. Landis, Ashland.

Services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at the Gilbert chapel, with Rev. Robert Airhart of Paradise Hill officiating. Burial will be made in the Chestnut Grove cemetery.

SALES AHEAD OF FIRST QUARTER OF LAST YEAR

Mansfield Figures 6 Per Cent More Than State Average, State Records Show.

Steadily improving retail business conditions in the Mansfield area during the first quarter of this year gave Richland county an 18.6 per cent increase in sales tax revenue over the first three months of 1939. The state-wide gain was 12 per cent.

Richland county ranked 20th among the 88 counties in per cent of gain, figures compiled by State Treasurer Don H. Ebright showed. Increases over last year ranged from 31.9 per cent in Auglaize county, highest in the state, to one per cent in Highland county. Seven counties all in southern Ohio, showed losses for the first quarter with Vinton county trailing with a drop of 16.7 per cent.

Collections in Richland county to April 1 amounted to $127,637, an increase of $20,022 over the total for the first quarter of 1939. In the last week of March receipts climbed to $10,218 this year as compared with $8,231 during the same week of 1939.

State-wide collections totaled $11,173,486 in the first quarter of this year as against $9,905,448 in the corresponding quarter of 1939, State Treasurer Ebright said.

Contributing most to the gain in the county and state were increases of 47 per cent in mail order house business, 35.2 per cent in new car sales, 34 per cent in fuel and ice sales, and 23 per cent in purchases of farm supplies.

$203,000 In Redemptions.

The state paid out $203,911 to 14,207 persons and organizations for redemption of used sales tax stamps in the first three months of this year. Stamps redeemed represent more than $200,000,000 in retail sales.

The redemption plan, credited with a part of the state increase in sales tax collections, was adopted last year to encourage purchasers to ask for their tax stamps.

BARBER, 77, DIES

C. L. V. Curtis Stricken at Hospital In Ashland.

ASHLAND—C. L. V. Curtis, 77, an Ashland barber for the past 54 years, died at Samaritan hospital this morning.

Mr. Curtis was born in Butler county June 24, 1862. He had attended Holbrook Normal college in his youth and taught school for several years. He took up the barber trade in 1886 and had operated in the same room here for 42 years.

Nov. 24, 1886, he married Evelyn Eastham, who survives him. He is also survived by two sons, Earl V. Curtis of Nankin; Robert L. of Canton; a daughter, Mrs. Morgan Workman, of Ashland, and three brothers and a sister. They are Harry Curtis, Elwood, Ind.; Orville, Cincinnati; Thomas, Eaton, O., and Mrs. Effie Schenck, Camden, O.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Monday at the Denbow-Bear funeral home, with Rev. H. E. Andrews officiating and burial in Ashland cemetery.

ILLNESS FATAL TO MRS. MANGUM

Crestline Woman Succumbs After Illness of Several Weeks.

CRESTLINE — Mrs. Lucille Mangum, 53, died at her home here Thursday morning after an illness of several weeks.

Born Dec 14, 1887 in Atlanta, Ga., Mrs. Mangum had lived in Crestline since 1923. She is survived only by her husband, W. H. Mangum.

Funeral services will be held at 1 p. m. Monday at the Foster funeral home with Elder Fulton of Columbus officiating. Burial will be in Crestline cemetery.

SERVICES OPEN

Free Methodist Church Elder to Conduct Conference Here.

Rev. J. F. Barkas of Galion, district elder of the Free Methodist church, will conduct the quarterly conference of the Mansfield Free Methodist church, Woodland avenue, which opens at 7:30 p. m. today and continues through Sunday evening.

Rev. Barkas will also speak during services at 7:30 p. m. Saturday and Sunday and at a 10:30 a. m. service Sunday.

FUNERAL HOUR CHANGED

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Donnellan, 82, former Mansfield resident, who died in Cleveland Thursday will be held at 10 a. m. Saturday at St. Peter's Catholic church instead of 9:30 a. m. as previously announced. Msgr. R. C. Goebel will officiate. Burial will be in Mansfield Catholic cemetery.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Far From Times Square.

Jerry Lewis is a sports writer who stays up late in the places around Swing Street where ball players and prize-fighters and the pro football fellows go to swap stories after midnight. So it is not surprising that in his travels he should pick up a tale like the saga of a strange place far from Broadway.

By JERRY D. LEWIS

This story may be old. I wouldn't know. It's new to me, or it was when I heard it in a San Francisco bistro (pronounced saloon.)

There was a mealy, Saroyan character sitting at the bar at Izzy Gomez' one night, playing a broken down uke. After a number of given drinks, he told us the story, the strange story of a gold mine at a place called Superstition Mountain. Believe it or Ripley, the story is true.

Superstition Mountain is located 45 miles due east of Phoenix, Arizona, and it covers a coffin-shaped area some thirty miles long and about fifteen miles wide. Except for the very shallow foothills, it is unmapped, but not, as you shall see, unexplored.

There are those still living who were alive when three brothers named Pedro, Ramon and Manuel Peralta found this bloody bonanza. While stumbling through the mountain's hidden valleys, they literally fell across this seemingly unending strip of golden ore. Furtively, they mined a little, and took it back to Phoenix to have it assayed.

The ore was heavy with gold, so the Peralta boys quickly rounded up some of their Spanish friends and returned to the hills. As they neared the deposit, the party was set upon by wild-eyed Apaches, who scalped almost the entire party. Ramon Peralta was the sole survivor who returned to Phoenix to tell the story.

Because the story of that bloodshed was repeated, it became the story of an Indian curse

Ramon never dared to put the mysterious lines of a map down on parchment. In the early 1860's, he was a broken, painridden old man lying in the back hall bedroom of an old saloon hotel

There were two prospectors in Phoenix who believed the old man's babbling tale. Ramon's knowledge was worth something to them, and to him their money would mean that his final few years would be spent in some kind of comfort. So they traded, and Ramon sat on his cot in the still, gaslit room, and drew from his memory the best map he could.

The two young men, named Ludi and Jacobs—their first names have been lost in the story's slow march through the years—started from Phoenix late in 1863. Each spring they went into the hills. Each spring for ten long years.

But in 1873, their bitter travail was rewarded. One morning, Jacobs was digging around with his pick. Suddenly he screamed:

"Gold . . . gold . . . it's here . . . the old man . . . he wasn't lying. . ."

The two began work, and they were happy Here was gold . . . gold . . . and more gold. As Ludi brought up a particularly rich piece of ore, he held it up to the sun and watched the speckled rock laugh with richness.

A moment later, both of them lay dead, with bullets through their hearts. They had been so gleefully concerned with their newfound wealth that they failed to hear two miners who had followed them. Two scavengers named Jake Wiser and Jake Walz.

But even now, with all the wealth of their dreams at their feet, everything was not jake with the two Jakes. Walz' gun spoke first, and where a moment before he had been the owner of only fifty per cent of the mine, now he owned it all.

Walz mined for a while, and then he fell to wondering what the gold could bring to him. So he started a series of excursions to Phoenix with enough gold ore to buy him all the things he desired. Each time he returned to the mine, he was followed, but his speedy trigger finger guaranteed his safe and unescorted return.

In 1878, Walz decided that he had enough. He returned to Phoenix, built himself an adobe hut, and there while away the next three years of his life making himself the Diamond Jim Brady of his day in Phoenix.

But Superstition Mountain was not to be denied a return match. In 1891, Walz planned to return to the mine. But the day before he was to leave, a laughing Spring flood that gurgled its way down the face of the mountain swept away his home and Walz died of pneumonia.

The mine thereafter was known as the Lost Dutchman, and though searches have been made from that time on—and now it is almost half a century—the Lost Dutchman remains the Judge Crater of the mines.

How many people have vanished or been murdered in the long search, no one, except possibly the murderers, can tell. The last known victim was Adolph Ruth, a retired government clerk. Finding his somewhat meager pension insufficient to sustain him, Ruth purchased a map from a Spaniard who swore on a Fresno' phone book that he was a direct descendant of Ramon Peralta.

Ruth went up into the hills. Two months later, searching parties found his fully clothed body, with only one rather important detail missing. His head!

Several miles further on, his skull was found, the worse for wear by two bullet holes.

Under the flap of his check book, found in his pants pocket, was written: 'I came, I saw, I conquered! The mine is 200 yards across from the case." The Spaniard's map, though, was missing.

Since then, several other parties have tried to locate the mine. It is the current belief in Phoenix, the old man said, that the Lost Dutchman is being worked.

There are others who say that the mine will never be found, because it is protected by the thunder gods. And maybe it is. I'm never going to find out. My insurance policy doesn't cover thunder gods.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Jack Oakie has as good a reason as you'll ever hear for keeping up his weight: sylph-like as he was during his late reducing campaign, he never might have been in a Charlie Chaplin picture.

Jack is hoofing now, for the first time in years, as the foster father of Shirley Temple in "The Young People." Jack's hoofing partner, in the picture, is Charlotte Greenwood. Together, they go through some dillies of steps guaranteed to drip off a pound or two here and there.

Oakie came out of one such routine, steaming and puffing a little, and smacked his lips: "Two pounds, just about - say, I gotta watch that!"

Jack's the fellow who, with a load of 225 pounds of flabby fat to drag around, took up a serious course of exercise, diet and medication to put him back in the wasp-waist contingent. He skidded in practically no time to a sparse, trim 154, and he was feeling pretty good about it. But then, he says -

"I asked the doc. I said, here I am at 154, and what do I do about it now? The doc says, 'Oakie, you just keep it up- the diet, the exercise, and the pills—for the rest of your life.' So Oakie says, 'Who, me!' And that's the end of that.

"When I went to Europe last year," says Jack, "I hit Paris—and Paris food. It was too much. So I came back, and I weigh 195 pounds today, and it's all right with me! I keep up the exercises, and I don't carry any blubber around on these bones, but I feel good, and I'm happy. And when I think my reducing trick might have cost me the chance to play Benzino Napolini with Chaplin's Adenoid Hinkle in 'The Great Dictators'—I get kind of sick."

It seems Chaplin had known Oakie, and vice versa, for some years, and when Chaplin was casting his first talkie, he liked Jack for the other dictator's role. Then (Chaplin told Oakie later) he saw these slimmed-up pictures of Jack, and groaned. The dictators of the piece, as Chaplin insists, are "mythical figures," but even so, a thin Benzino might have been hard to take. And when Chaplin saw Oakie again—after Paris, and crepes suzettes, and French wines - the comedian was overjoyed. Jack Oakie was definitely in as Benzano.

Charges Spanish Reds Murdered American Fighters

DIES WITNESS NAMED KILLER OF SEVEN MEN

Returning Loyalist Soldiers Not Permited to Leave Country Alive, Claim.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Charges that American boys were beaten and executed in Spain because they sought to return to this country, were made before the Dies committee today by Maxwell N. Wallach, Detroit business man.

Wallach, with a break in his voice, said his son was one of those killed.

He named as the "actual executioner" Tony D'Maio, who is under committee subpoena to testify later.

The greying, middle aged witness, said his son went to fight for the Loyalists in the Spanish revolution, early in 1937 when he was 23 years old.

"I found out later he was recruited by the so-called International Workers' Order in New York," he said.

Got Release.

The witness said he took the matter up with the state department and secured a release for his son through an American consul in Spain.

"On March 6, 1938, I got a wire from the state department telling me my son was being sent out of Spain—but he never showed up."

Wallach declared he went to New York and talked with others who fought in Spain and returned.

"I discovered that after several unsuccessful attempts those in charge of the American Lincoln Brigade succeeded in killing my son.

"They killed him in a prison just outside Barcelona. Tony D'Maio did the actual killing—no only of my son but of six other American boys whose bodies are now buried in that prison yard."

OPEN NIGHTS

Election Board Extends Hours For Voter Registrations.

The county board of elections office in the courthouse basement will be open from 8 a. m. to 9 p. m. Saturday and Monday to handle registrations and transfers for the May 14 primary election, Walter Underwood, deputy clerk of the board, said today.

There will be someone in the board's headquarters during the noon hour both days, Underwood said. Monday night is the deadline for registering and transferring.

Residents of the city who have not voted in the last two general elections, who have just reached voting age or recently moved into the city must register to vote in May.

Transfers are required of persons who have changed their address since the last election and women who were recently married.

Talking Over Airport Improvements

Mansfield's future lies in the improvement and expansion of its municipal airport, Earl L. Johnson, state director of aeronautics, told the Kiwanis club here yesterday

"The time will arrive when industry will inquire of a city, what are your airport facilities? The city that expects to hold its rightful place in the industrial world and attract new industry must maintain its place in aviation, especially in airport improvement," Johnson asserted

"Your airport has grown into something besides just a place to fly. It is a means of placing your city on a basis equal to New York, Chicago and Los Angeles in the matter of transportation and mail service."

Johnson termed the present day airlines as "railroads of the future" and urged Mansfield to develop its airfield to be ready when airlines expand their feeder line service—the interconnecting link between the larger inter-city routes.

He said feeder line and pick-up service had already been planned for several southern Ohio cities and predicted that it would be only a matter of a few years until the service would be expanded throughout the state.

He recommended the leveling and sodding of the airport's present runways, stating that the landing field was of ample size to provide landing for any aircraft in flying service today. He also suggested extension of two of the present runways.

Johnson warned club members about getting into "any old plane" you see along the road, and told them to demand to see the ship's license and that of the pilot before boing on a flight.

He said that the state department of aviation had enlisted the services of the state highway patrol in checking licenses of planes and pilots in order to reduce the accident toll.

Johnson was introduced by Dr. L. D. Bonar, past president of the Richland county chapter of the National Aeronautical association.

CITY BUYS NEW CRUISER, PIPE

Purchases Police Car For $900, Sewer Materials on Car Load Bid.

The city board of control today announced that it had awarded two contracts, one calling for delivery of a new police cruiser and the other for 10 carloads of sewer pipe.

Contract for the cruiser went to the R. E. Moorehead Ford agency, lone bidder sumbitting a price of $900. It was the exact amount set up by council for purchase of the machine.

Moorehead also agreed to purchase a three-year-old cruiser now in use for $200.

Contract for delivery of the sewer pipe was let to M. L. Branyan Bros. and Sons, one of four firms which submitted identical bids on the materials.

Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton who rejected an identical group of bids from the same firms several weeks ago said the city would save approximately $1,400 on the total purchase.

Branyan Bros. bid was $266 a car on eight-inch pipe. Other bidders were Voegele Bros., Builders Supply and Kallmerten-Baer, Inc.

BACK WHEELER AS CANDIDATE TO AVOID WAR

Recall Opposition to Sending American Boys to Fight In Foreign Lands.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Senator Clark (D., Idaho) put forward Senator Wheeler (D., Mont.) today as the only presidential candidate who had promised unreserved opposition to American involvement in the European war.

Replying to the argument of third term advocates that events abroad make it mandatory for President Roosevelt to run again, Clark asserted in a statement:

"Today the critical war situation abroad clearly points to the absolute and unqualified necessity of keeping the United States out of this world conflict.

"Senator Burton K. Wheeler is the only outstanding candidate for the presidency who has stated unconditionally that he would never permit this country to become involved in a European war."

Both Wheeler and Clark voted against last year's neutrality bill lifting the arms embargo. Wheeler has said he would not be a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination if Mr. Roosevelt runs, but has expressed the view that the chief executive would not seek a third term.

Secretary Ickes, a third term advocate, told reporters yesterday that if the president was reelected, he would resign from the cabinet and say "Thanks for the buggy ride."

Mr. Roosevelt and Thomas E. Dewey are leading in the races for the Democratic and Republican presidential nominations, as far as pledged delegates go.

New Mexico Republicans selected six uninstructed delegates in a convention yesterday. Republicans pick 22 delegates today at an Iowa convention and 12 more delegates in Missouri district conventions. Both groups are expected to be uninstructed.

Supporters of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio said he probably would enter no primaries except in his home state, where he is unopposed for the Republican presidential nomination. They added, however, that there "more of a possibility" that he would enter Maryland's primary than West Virginia's.

Capital City's Best Amateurs To Fight Here

Armstrong, Franklin, Columbus Champions, to Face Mansfield Fighters In Armory Show.

By CHARLES MARTIN

WHEN Manuel Armstrong and Frank Franklin climb through the ropes in the "battle of champions" benefit amateur boxing show Battery D stages at the Armory Wednesday Mansfield fans will have a chance of seeing two of the outstanding Columbus mittsters in action.

If advance reports are authentic these leather pushers are the finest slmon pure ringsters to represent the Capital city in several years.

Armstrong, a middleweight, who clashes with Jake Zacharias, Mansfield's leading 160-pounder, in one of the five-round semi-final settos, comes here sporting a splendid records.

He recently won the American Legion tournament championship at Columbus and in 1939 reached the finals in the National A. A. U. classic. In the Columbus meet he won all his fights up to the semi-finals by knockouts.

Franklin, a lightweight, is scheduled to tangle with Beauford Glover in the feature five-rounder. Whether Glover, who advanced to the semi-finals of the National tourney this week, will be able to participate in the show is not known today.

Glover suffered a cut over his left eye which required two stitches, and Russ Gimble, district A. A. U. commissioner, will have the youth examined by a Mansfield physician late today to determine if he will be ready to go.

But even if Glover cannot fight, Mansfield fans will still see a topnotch card. Franklin, will be matched with another good light weight.

A bout that should bring fight enthusiasts in the Armory is the battle between Charles Hodges, 163, of Columbus and Al Sauer of the Friendly House.

Considered second only to Armstrong in Columbus circles, Hodges may make it interesting for Sauer. He is a willing puncher and at the speed Sauer travels it'll probably be a thriller.

John Villella and Mike Wentz, matchmakers, today announced that Norman Weiser, 124, and William Zenle, 116, have been secured to meet Sam Walker and Eddie Talley, settlement lads, respectively. The signing of the Fremont boys completes the card.

Ray Howman, 135, Ashland, faces Dan Matthes, 135, Columbus, and Joe Sauer, 147, Friendly House, takes on John Cottier, 146, Fremont, in the other bouts. Cottier defeated Sauer in the final of the recent Junior Association of Commerce tourney.

* * *

Tickets for the show may be secured from any member of Battery D and Capt. R. J. Nichols.

The show is being staged to raise funds for Battery D's Recreational fund.

Mansfielders Annex Prizes

Rifle and Pistol Club Comes Home With 5 Firsts.

One team and four individual prizes were annexed by the Mansfield Rifle and Pistol club at a banquet held in the Galion Masonic temple last night following a week's tournament of the Crawford County Rifle and Pistol association held in Galion.

The Mansfield Handicap team, composed of Harry Constance, Fred Sells, Floyd Barr, F. W. Corwin, and Merle Landon, won with a brilliant 1486 out of a possible 1500 points.

Individual Mansfield winners were: F. E. Ross, who won the individual improvement match and the marksman classes; individual handicap, Harry Constance; and the 20 shots standing class, L. S. Barr.

F. W. Corwin of Mansfield, president of the association, was master of ceremonies at the banquet.

Expect Another Attack On Pins

DETROIT—(AP)—Another heavy attack by champions, ex-champions and near-champions is expected to shake up the standings in the American bowling congress tournament this week-end.

Joe Wilman of Chicago, all-events winner at Cleveland last year with a 2,028 tally, heads the list.

The Weber's Dairy tea of Joliet, Ill., climbed into second place in the five-man division last night to create the only major change. The Joliet five rolled 2,971, twelve pins short of the score posted by the leading Klings team of Flint, Mich.

NATS DOING NICELY

WASHINGTON —(AP)— For a club that has been billed as short on power, the Nats have been doing nicely of late. Salting away their eighth straight victory yesterday at the expense of the Boston Bees, they again demonstrated that they had the punch when it counted.

Instructing 80 Youths At Tiffin Rookie School

TIFFIN—(AP)—Manager Myles Thomas of the Tiffin baseball club of the Ohio State league is instructing 80 rookies at the team's training school. Attendance doubled yesterday, the second day of training. The list includes 29 pitchers and eight catchers.

Indians Not Too Unhappy About Weather

Three Infielders on Injured List; Hurlers Not Ready.

BLUEFIELD, W. Va.—(AP)—The Indians aren't too unhappy about the snow and cold weather reported from the north.

Three infielders are on the injured list, another is not in the best of shape and some of the pitchers admittedly need more work before being pronounced ready for the American league season.

Thus some of the players feel it will be to their advantage if a few of the early games are postponed.

The schedule calls for the Redskins to open a three-game series in Chicago Sunday and play the home inaugural with Detroit a week from today.

Lou Boudreau and Oscar Grimes joined Hal Trosky on the injury list as a result of yesterday's exhibition game with the New York Giants at Danville, Va.

Grimes, who underwent an operation on his knee shortly before the spring training grind started, bruised the knee sliding. A grounder hit Boudreau on the ankle which was chipped a few weeks ago. Both will be able to play within a day or two, but may not be at their best.

Trosky is still nursing a bruised hand hit by a pitched ball. Third Baseman Ken Keltner has been playing in spite of a sinus attack.

* * *

Bob Feller, scheduled to hurl seven innings against the Giants here today, will pitch the Chicago opener. Manager Jimy Dykes of the Chisox said his nominee would be Southpaw Edgar Smith.

Ol' Diz Ready For Big Boss

Great Dean Subdued After Wifely Admonitions.

CHICAGO — (AP) — Dizzy Dean was ready today to test the "open door" policy of his big boss, P. K. Wrigley, owner of the Chicago Cubs.

The stormy one, relatively subdued after wifely admonitions and a night auto trip from St. Louis, said upon his arrival:

"There's been a lot of misquotin'. I don't know where it is. I don't know where it started, but there's been a lot of misquotin'.

"Yes, I'm going to see Wrigley, on orders from Hartnett. (Manager Gabby Hartnett whom Dean earlier was quoted as calling "Picklepuss.")

Dean's arrival climaxed almost 48 hours of fast talk and faster denials following a $100 fine assessed by Hartnett Wednesday for staying out late.

Wrigley, in commenting on Dean's showdown threat, inferred the door was open.

"I am an easy man to see," he averred.

SWITCH DATES

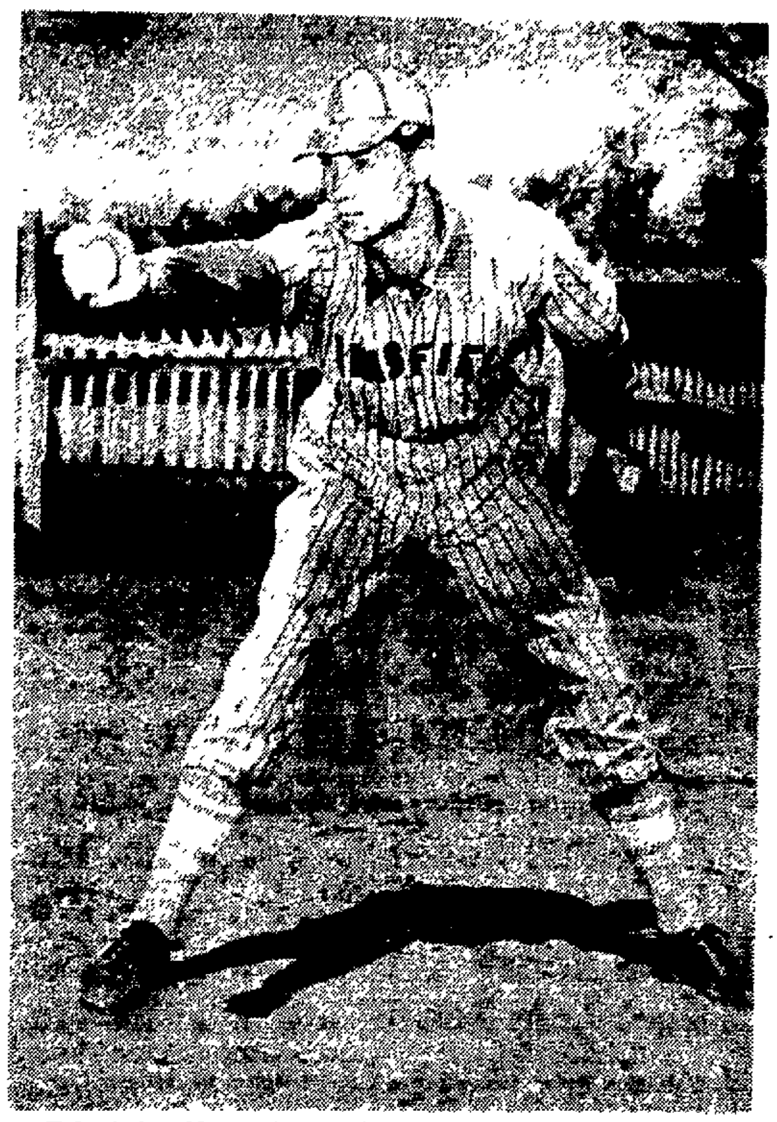
Battles For Berth on Team



Robert Arnold, regular on the Mansfield Braves' team during most of the 1939 season, is back at the training camp fighting for a berth on the club's pitching corps again. The youth was struck on the knee by a line drive in mid-season last year and had to retire from active duty. Rain and snow have bottled up activities at the Fairground.

Friendly House Plans Junior Baseball Loop This Summer

AN EIGHT-CLUB junior baseball league will be sponsored by the Friendly House, it was announced today by Russ Gimbel, settlement director. The circuit will run on the split season schedule with the champions of the two rounds clashing in a playoff series. Boys 15 years old and under are eligible to participate in the league. Plans are under way today to set the clubs into action Saturday, April 27. Entry blanks may be secured from Mike Wentz, Boys' director. The Friendly House will furnish catchers' equipment and bats and balls. Players must provide own gloves. The league will run throughout the summer. Games will be played at the Tappan Stove field, which will be used as the settlement playground this season. Miniature gold-plated baseballs will be awarded the players of the championship team.

Heffner, Blecker Tangle In Feature Bout Monday

With Jimmy Heffner of Sherman Tex. and George Beck of New York already signed to headline the show, Matchmaker Tim Nolan of the Quality club today announced the semi-final for next Monday night's mat show in the Armory.

Nolan has signed the rough and ready New York Italian. "Bull" Marino to meet his arch-rival Jack Smithers of Kansas City, better known as the Masked Marvel.

POSTPONE CITY BOWLING TOURNAMENT ONE WEEK

At a meeting held last night by the Mansfield City Bowling association at Finefrock's, it was decided to postpone the City Handicap Bowling tournament, which was to have opened at the Meder alleys this week-end, one week.

The tournament is scheduled to open April 20 or 21. Entries may be filed at the Meder alleys until April 17.

Convicts Fight For Night Out

Ohio Pen Plan Mitt Show Early This Summer

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Warden Frank D. Henderson of Ohio penitentiary hopes a score of convicts will fight their way out of the century-old prison this summer—at least for one night.

The fights would be in a worthy cause and under strict prison supervision, he said with a grin, adding that he hoped as many persons as possible would pay to see them.

Today the two officials came up with their big idea—a fight show between prisoners, staged outside the walls.

Al Haft, Columbus wrestling and fight promoter, pledged free use of his "acre" arena, and several referees promised to donate their services. General Henderson predicted the show, planned for the early summer, would swell the prisoner aid fund nearly $2,000.

RANGERS TAKE LEAD

TORONTO —(U.P.)— The New York Rangers need only one more victory today to win their first Stanley Cup in seven years. The Rangers took a 3-2 lead in their best-of-seven final series last night by defeating the Toronto Maple Leafs, 2-1, in two overtime periods.

By HENRY McLEMORE

NEW YORK—If I were a collector of antiques I'd get a bid in quick for Dizzy Dean.

Here is a genuine Sheraton silly and a Chippendale crackpot if there ever was one. Not to mention an authentic Jacobean jackass and a Louis Quinze loon.

Now'd be a good time to buy, too. I have a feeling that the present owner of this early American pitcher, Mr. Wrigley of the Chicago Cubs, is a bit tired of keeping him on his shelves, being as he has enough curios without him. I am quite sure that Gabby Hartnett, manager of Mr. Wrigley's shop, would set an astoundingly low price and perhaps pay for freight charges, too.

Certainly Ye Cubs Curio Shoppe has every reason to want to get rid of this rare item catalogued as Dizzy Dean. Bought at a price that the Mona Lisa wouldn't fetch, Dean has pitched little more effectively than the Mona Lisa would have.

Certainly Mona Lisa or even Gainsborough's Blue Boy couldn't have done much worse than Dean did in winning only seven games in 1938 and six in 1939 for the Cubs. And for a two-year salary of $40,000. As a matter of fact, the Blue Boy looks like pretty good pitching material. He has a stance remindful of Hubbell's and appears loose and easy.

But let's get back to Dean, unpleasant as it might be. Dizzy might not be too much of a problem if he would only confine his faults to an inability to pitch more than once every ten days and score a victory once a month. But that apparently is asking too much. The glorious vitality of what must be the strongest pair of vocal chords in the world compells him to pop-off on the most tactless subjects.

Overpaid, he puts the blast on clubowners and calls them misers, unwilling to pay a laborer for his hire.

Unpopular, he blisters his manager, Hartnett, and suggests that he quit trying to manage a baseball team.

On the down grade, he boasts, roars, bleats and challenges as if he were the greatest star in the game.

Instead of being grateful for the chance to make $10,000 for doing little more than ornament one end of the 'Cubs' dugout in a becoming flannel suit, he bites not only the hand that feeds him, but the wrist, elbow and shoulder.

As a morale builder on a baseball team, Dizzy must unquestionably take rank with the great disturbers of all time. Given an opportunity, he could have the Dionne quintpulets flying at one another's throats. His only value as a team man would be in a game of solitaire.

Of course, there may be method in Dizzy's madness. There is always the chance that he will make himself so disliked by the fans that they will troop to the park in thousands hoping to see him knocked out of the box, hit on the head by a fly ball, or in some other way embarrassed or hurt.

TIGERS-REDS CLASH

DAYTON—(AP)—Rained out yesterday, the Detroit Tigers and Cincinnati Reds try it again in their en route-home series. Tommy Bridges and Buck Newsom, big guns of the Detroit hill staff, were down for their final airing before the start of the season next week. Whitey Moore was Manager Bill McKechnie's choice.

Pick Cardinals To Win Senior League Pennant

All But Three of 76 Sports Writers In AP Poll Selected Cards or Reds.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Baseball "experts" as a whole are generally agreed that the 1940 National league race will be a two-team affair, but they are split almost 50-50 on whether the St. Louis Cardinals or the Cincinnati Reds will come home in front, with a slight edge going to the St. Louis entry.

Of 76 sports writers taking part in an Associated Press poll all but three named either the Cards or Reds in the No. 1 spot, the Cards drawing 39 first-place votes to 34 for the defending champions. One long-shot addict picked the Pirates, and two strung along with the Cubs.

Second-place ballots also were pretty well cornered by the 1-2 teams, although nine voters picked the Cubs for the runnerup spot, six named the Giants, four the Dodgers and two the Pirates.

There the common agreement ceased, however, and it was every man for himself the rest of the way in, or at least down to the Bees and Phillies. The Phillies escaped being a unanimous last-place choice by three seventh-place votes, and the Bees escaped a similar seventh-place designation by drawing one fourth, one fifth, two sixth and three eight-place votes.

So varied is the opinion on all except the first two and last two teams that two of them were nominated for six different positions, and the Pirates were picked for every place but eighth. In fact, even the Cardinals were named for every spot down to and including the fifth, and the Reds were dropped back to fourth by two voters.

TRADITIONALLY AMERICAN

The gold seekers of a century ago "panned" many a ton of gravel for every ounce of precious metal they secured. Today the "gold panner" has passed from the American scene. Scientific geologists locate the gold before diggin' is begun. Modern equipment and techniques produce "pay dirt."

SPECIAL BREW BOHEMIAN
WIEDEMANN BEER

Someone has called beer "the liquid gold" among beverages. Perhaps you have used the methods of the "forty niners" in your search for the perfect beer . . . sampling many a "stream" and testing many a brew . . . and you are still unsatisfied. Try just once again . . . the scientific way. Try Wiedemann's. As an expert judge of fine beers you, too, will say that Wiedemann's is the "Bonanza" . . . the "seek-no-further." On draught and in bottles at the best places everywhere. It has the "taste you remember with pleasure."

BOWLING SCORES

SATTERLEE'S Restaurant annexed three games from the Ohio Public Service team at the Meder alleys last night to hop into a tie with the Mohican Chevrolet's for first place in the Commercial B league. The Chevrolet's, who held sole possession of first place before last night's play, dropped two games to the Kochheiser Sports club.

* * *

Individual honors in the circuit were won by Joe Daum, who had a 628. Dick Young had a 618 and Eugene Funston a 616.

Margaret Baker pounded out a 554 total to take scoring honors in the Women's league at the Meder alleys last night. Kate Cheney came in with a 539, while Jennie McMichaels had a 522 and Thelma Linster a 310.

Indians Lose Decision, 5-2

Boudreau, Grimes Suffer Injuries In Game.

BLUEFIELD, W. Va.—(U.P.)—A tendency toward brittleness today disturbed Cleveland baseball fans about the season-long endurance of the Indians' classy infield, praised as the best in 15 years.

Lou Boudreau and Oscar Grimes, recognized as two of the neatest defensive players in the league, have been on the shelf most of the spring with injuries. Back in the lineup yesterday, each suffered irritations to the injuries that sent them to the bench as the Indians lost to the New York Giants, 5 to 2, at Danville, Va.

PAM—"That's Strange!" By A. W. Brewerton

IN A DISTANT CITY, DAVID RECEIVES A REPLY FROM HIS SISTER!
CLARE SAYS PAM HAS NO IDEA OF GETTING MARRIED SOON — THAT SHE'S NOT EVEN ENGAGED!? —NOW— THAT'S STRANGE!
YOU RECALL, FRIEND READER, THAT GORDON SAW ANOTHER GIRL, WHOM HE TOOK TO BE PAM, IN A STRANGE MAN'S ARMS
I —I JUST DON'T UNDERSTAND IT AT ALL! —PAM'S NOT THAT KIND OF GIRL!— ONLY, IF SHE LOVED A MAN, INTENDED TO MARRY HIM, WOULD SHE HAVE RESPONDED SO TO HIS EMBRACE!
4-12
WAS IT MENTAL TELEPATHY MADE PAM THINK OF DAVID ?!
OH, DAVID! DAVID!! IF YOU WERE ONLY HERE! —I NEED YOU, DAVID! —I'M WORRIED!
YOU WOULD KNOW JUST WHAT TO DO! —I'M SO FEARFUL — SO AFRAID THOSE WICKED MEN ARE GOING TO DO SOMETHING —TERRIBLE!
AN OLD MAN, AND A YOUNG GIRL! —WHAT CHANCE HAVE THEY AGAINST HARDESTY'S HIRED CRIMINALS ?

MANY LEADERS AT STANDSTILL IN STOCK MART

A Few Specialties Manage to Keep In Rising Column; Bonds Are Spotty.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — A few specialties managed to keep in the rising column in today's stock market but many leaders were at a standstill.

Stocks inclined to lag included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing and American Telephone.

Bonds were spotty and commodities steady. The "free" pound sterling weakened in terms of the dollar. European markets lacked definite direction.

Market students found a cheerful note in week-end merchandising reviews which generally spoke of expanding public spending.

Dun and Bradstreet estimated retail distribution this week topped the comparable period a year ago by 6 to 11 per cent.

More notice was taken of copper shares as the Engineering and Mining Journal reported the metal industry now believed the Allies would have to transfer more of their fabricating orders to the United States.

CHILDREN HERE JOIN CRUSADE

12,000 School Pupils Take Part In Campaign to Help War Victims.

the war-devastated children of the world.

The plan is to have "mite cans" in every school room. Millions of attractive little mite boxes are being contributed by the association of American can manufacturers, while the metal in them is contributed by the sheet metal corporations.

All expenses for the Crusade are being financed by private contributions, so that every penny given by children will go to alleviate child suffering in other lands. The national fund when it is collected at the end of the Crusade will be administered by the internationally known services which are already set up in every war-stricken country.

The awards, or the allocation of funds to the various countries will be based on needs and numbers of children. The committee on awards is made up of Protestant, Catholic, Jewish and non-sectarian leaders, among them Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Caroline S. Woodruff, former president of the National Education Association; Dr. Charles B. Glenn, superintendent of the public schools of Birmingham, Ala.; Monsignor John A. Ryan, director of the National Catholic Welfare Conference; Justice Irving Lehman, New York Court of Appeals; and William Allen White.

The list of sponsors of the Crusade includes the names of most of the distinguished educators, churchmen and writers of America.

Mrs. Albert Heekin, regional chairman of Ohio and Kentucky was in this district this week, organizing the Crusade in Mansfield and Richland county schools; Country Day school; Ashland public schools, Shelby, Crestline, Bucyrus and Crawford county, and Canton and Stark county schools.

There will be national broadcasts on the Crusade and superintendents in Akron and Cleveland will give special broadcasts on the movement.

MANSFIELD NEWS IN BRIEF

Orders Dog Tied—Police yesterday ordered W. G. Jackson, 18 Wolfe avenue, to tie up his dog after neighbors complained about the animal running at large.

Shoot Saturday—A shoot for members of the Mansfield Muzzle-Loader Rifle club is scheduled for 1 p. m. Saturday at the Triangle Gun club on the Park avenue west road.

House Looted—Fred Thomas, 41 Library court, told police yesterday that his residence was entered Wednesday night and a $40 watch taken. Officers said entrance was gained by forcing the lock on a kitchen door.

Reports Theft—The theft of a .22 caliber revolver, valued at $20 from his store at 52 Park avenue, was reported to police today by Ira Kochheiser. He said he suspected two young men who were in the establishment Tuesday.

Gives Demonstration — A demonstration in liquid air was given before students of John Simpson and Johnny Appleseed junior high school during special assemblies today. The demonstration was given by John Sloan of the Liquid Air Demonstration company.

Speaks To Youth Group—Rev. E. G. Corwin, pastor of the First Methodist church, will address members of the Richland County Youth Cooperative at a meeting at 8 p. m. Monday in Trades Council hall. Walter Berry will have charge of the recreation program.

Stabbed In Fight — William Stacey, 45, of 275 North Diamond street, was treated at the General hospital last night for a knife wound in his right arm. Police said the injury was sustained when Stacey attempted to halt an argument in which his brother was involved.

New Office Hours—A new schedule of hours for the federal security office in the Richland Trust building was announced today by H. B. Swearingen, manager. The office will be open from 8 a. m. to 3:45 p. m. under the new set-up instead of from 8:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., Swearingen said.

Hold Party—Amima club members will hold a "ladies' night" party for their wives at 8 p. m. Saturday at Schwartz's tavern on U. S. route 42, south of Mansfield. O. P. Anderson and H. H. Davis are in charge of the program, which will include bingo and bridge followed by a buffet lunch.

Attending Funeral—Mrs. Dilla Graham, 223 East Second street, and sons, Carl and Richard, are in Wyandot today attending the funeral of their sister-in-law and aunt, Miss Sarah Elizabeth Groham, who died Wednesday. Services were held at the home of M. V. Underwood, a brother-in-law. Burial in Oakwood cemetery.

Confer Degrees—Degrees will be conferred on four candidates at meetings of two Masonic groups today and tomorrow at the Masonic temple. Three candidates will receive the Fellow Craft degree at a meeting of Frank H. Marquis Lodge No. 690, F. & A. M., at 7:30 p. m. today, and the Master Mason degree will be conferred on one candidate at a special meeting of Mansfield Lodge No. 35, F. & A. M., at 7:30 p. m. Saturday. A dinner will precede this meeting at 6:15 p. m.

In he came last week . . . a little man with lots of spunk. Said he was staying at the Leland . . . happened to pick up a Mansfield paper and had read our ad.
"Just what's so different about your suits and your prices?" he asked, a little on the loud side and without batting an eye.
"We'll show you, Sir," we replied in a voice just as loud as he used.
And we'll be darned if we didn't!

Powder Explosion Blamed for Ohio Mine Disaster

DEATHS OF 72 MEN RESULTED FROM BLASTS

State Official Gives Report on Evidence Gathered In Recent Hearings.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — George A. Strain, state director of industrial relations, in an official report, said today the "preponderance of evidence" pointed to a powder magazine explosion as the original detonation in the Willow Grove coal mine blast which resulted in deaths of 72 men.

Cause of the first explosion is still "unknown," he reported. The series of explosions wrecked the mine near Neffs, O., on March 16.

He said his findings were based on evidence uncovered during an examination of the wrecked mine and testimony received during hearings at Columbus. The testimony was given by company officials, powder experts, federal and state mine inspectors, mine workers and officials of the United Mine Workers union.

Dust Explosion.

Strain said that in his opinion the "severeity and wide extent of the explosion were the result of a propagated dust explosion." He believed the first blast from the powder cache set off a series of concussions.

The theory that "presence of gas was the probable cause of the explosion" is not supported by the evidence, he asserted.

In a preliminary report issued April 1, the federal bureau of mines criticized some machinery and explosives used in the mine but did not state definitely the cause of the blast. It described the disaster as "dust explosion with the possibility that gas may have been involved."

The Strain report said evidence disclosed a possible "overcharged shot fired" at the Eight West entrance which could have been capable of causing an explosion.

Evidence Found.

The report added that at the junction of Seven and Eight West with Twenty-Four South, a destroyed steel powder magazine gave evidence that a terrific explosion had occurred at that point capable of setting off a dust explosion.

Strain reported that the seat of the explosion was confined within the limits of Seven and Eight West entrances and the portion of Twenty-Four South between junction of Seven and Eight West.

"My opinion from the preponderance of evidence places the seat of the explosion on Twenty-Four South between the junction of Seven and Eight West and the probable cause of the primary explosion was the explosion of the powder magazine, the cause of which is unknown," Strain said.

Strain said his bureau was not halting its efforts to eliminate hazards in Ohio mines and that he might have additional recommendations for safety to make to Governor Bricker soon.

A group of mine workers conferred with the governor yesterday on safety suggestions.

FIRST WAR COST

Changing Industry Would Take Five Hundred Million.

CLEVELAND —(INS)— Re-tooling and equipping of the United States' industrial plants to make equipment for an army of 2,000,000 men would cost $500,000,000 and take at least a year, the Cleveland chapter of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers learned today.

Col. H. K. Rutherford, director of the planning branch of the ordnance department, and Maj. D. N. Hauseman, attached to the office of the chief of ordnance explained that "educational orders" to private industry and government arsenals had prepared the way for production of war needs.

In the last fiscal year, Major Houseman said, $150,000,000 has been spent in such orders, providing small production of critical items of munitions and equipment. Approximately 10,000 industrial plants are being equipped for a changeover in case of war, he said.

METER LOST

COLUMBUS —(AP)— The state highway department's traffic perception-reaction meter isn't a thing to be mislaid. It weighs a half-ton, is as large as a grand piano and requires six men to lift it into a special truck. It was last seen at Zanesville, but the department doesn't know where it is now.

A tax on horses was imposed in England in 1784.

dletown, was admitted to the emergency room at the General hospital and two aged women and the man's wife were taken to the office of a Lexington physician.

The driver of the car, a son, escaped injury. Details of the accident were not learned.

Mrs. Howard Risser, 34, Ashland, was confined to Lodi hospital today with lacerations and possible internal injuries sustained last night when a machine driven by Rev. C. W. Mayes, of Ashland, was telescoped by a truck on U. S. route 42 near West Salem.

Rev. Mayes and Mrs. Ruth Scatterfield, also of Ashland, a passenger in the car, received lacerations and bruises.

In another accident on route 42, north of Ashland last night, two drivers escaped injury when an auautomobile and truck sideswiped and the truck rolled into a ditch, state highway patrolmen reported.

Officers said Ernest M. Goodwin, 36, Mt. Vernon, was operating the truck and Jacob Huckaby, 42, Cleveland, the car.

EXTENDS PACTS

President Approves Bill for Further Trade Treaties.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— President Roosevelt today signed a law extending for three years the power of the United States to negotiate reciprocal trade treaties with foreign powers.

Mr. Roosevelt said the measure was "expressive of the determination on the part of our people to retain unimpaired, for the next three years, this powerful instrument for promoting our national economic well being and for strengthening the foundations of stable peace."

Secretary of State Cordell Hull, who administers the trade program, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, Sen. Pat Harrison, D., Miss., and Rep. Robert H. Doughton, D., N. C., participated in the signing ceremony. Harrison and Doughton steered the measure through congress without a single amendment, despite a battle which reached its peak in an effort to require senate ratification of future agreements.

MUNITIONS LOST

Violent Explosions Heard in German Territory.

BRUSSELS —(INS)— A violent explosion occurred today a few miles inside German territory across the border from the Belgian city of Eupen.

Huge flames mounted into the sky following a series of detonations.

The blasts were believed to have occurred in a munitions dump.

TRADE TREATY LAW EXTENDED

President Signs Reciprocal Trade Bill Prolonging Power Three Years.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Roosevelt signed the reciprocal trade extension act today, providing for three more years of executive authority to bargain for foreign trade.

The chief executive brought three pens into use for his signature—one for Secretary Hull, who has made the trade agreements a keystone of foreign policy, and one each for Senator Harrison (D.,Miss.) and Representative Doughton (D.,N.C.), the men who shepherded the controversial proposal through congress.

Had not the extension been approved — final congressional action came April 3 on a 42-37 vote in the senate—the authority for President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull to make the reciprocal agreements would have expired June 12. The power was extended to June 12, 1943.

During the last six years the government has concluded 22 agreements with foreign nations providing for modification of tariffs and other restrictions on goods coming into the United States in exchange for concessions on American exports.

TAKES OWN LIFE

Youth Was Listed as High School Graduate.

FINDLAY—(AP)—Robert Glassco, 17, was listed by Findlay high school to graduate with his senior classmates in June. But he worried over his studies.

This despondency, said Coroner H. O. Crosby, prompted Glassco to kill himself with a rifle shot fired in the heart. G. R. Constein, high school principal, said the youth's name already had been listed for a diploma.

Several neighborhood soft drink places formerly permitted students dancing but in several instances stopped because of complaints about noise by people in the neighborhood. These places did not have dance hall licenses, Locke said, and could not afford to buy them.

NEW SEA BATTLE RAGING TODAY OFF TRONDHEIM

German and British Fleets at Grips as Latter Seek to Land Fighting Force.

ernment first fled from Oslo, were in flames early today and many Norwegian towns were reported bombed.

Kongsvinger, about 125 miles northeast of Oslo, also was bombed. German and Norwegian troops were fighting at several points west of Kongsvinger and at Eidsvold, half way between Oslo and Hamar.

Swedish correspondents in Norway said the Germans at Elverum were trapped "in a sack" with bridges burned behind them and that it was only a question of hours before they would be wiped out.

Near Kongsvinger, too, they said, the Germans were caught in a bottleneck and a pitched battle was believed imminent.

Germans Claim to Have Beaten Off British.

BERLIN—(U.P.)—The high command announced today that German troops in Norway had beaten off British air and naval attacks on Trondheim and Stavanger and had occupied new areas around Oslo, Narvik and Evenes.

It was announced that British torpedo-carrying airplanes had raided Trondheim and that British warships had attacked Trondheim fjord, but that both attacks failed and German troops had taken over more Norwegian coastal fortifications and put them in a state of preparedness.

The official news agency said German troops had reached Diamen, 25 miles east of Oslo, and Eidsvold, 44 miles northeast of Oslo.

"German troops yesterday steadily enlarged the area of occupation near Oslo," the communique said.

It was announced that areas around Bergen, Stavanger and Christiansand were quiet except for an unsuccessful raid on Stavanger.

The area of occupation was extended from Narvik and Evenes was occupied without fighting, the communique said. Evenes is across the Ofoten fjord from Narvik.

Authorized quarters in Berlin, recalling a previous announcement that Germany had no interest in the Faroe islands, Iceland and Greenland unless Britain took the initiative there, said, "clearly we will not leave such provocation as Churchill's announcement of the British occupation of the Faroe islands go unanswered."

View Trondheim as Logical Place to Land.

LONDON — (AP) — The central Norwegian port of Trondheim, in which a naval battle was reported in progress, was described today by neutral experts as the most likely base from which British, French and Norwegian troops might seek to scourge the German invaders into the sea.

(The German command reported that British planes and light naval forces attacking Trondheim were driven off.)

The Royal Air force, busily backing up the navy's efforts to destroy every German ship, reported its bombers had blown up an 8,000-ton Nazi munitions carrier in a bold raid on the straits linking the Baltic sea and the Kattegat.

As British military bases, four other ports besides Trondheim were seen as possibilities, because they are on railroads.

They are Namsos, north of Trondheim; Aandalisnes, on Romsdals fjord to the south, Norvik, in the Arctic; and Bergen, in the southwest.

Trondheim, however, with railroads leading north, south and east, and situated on a wide inlet that slashes nearly across Norway, was described as the best jump-off point as military strategists and British war office "brains" pored over maps to visualize a land campaign which must follow the present wide-open sea warfare between the British and German fleets.

Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, assured military men in his house of commons speech yesterday that Britain still was mistress of the seas and that the navy was able to maintain lines of supply to cover landings of expeditionary forces.

"We shall take what we want" on Norway's coast, he said, when the fleet has reached its primary goal—entire destruction of Germany's sea power.

Swedes Join Nazis? 'No Chance,' Reply.

LONDON — (INS) — A Swedish spokesman today "excluded completely" any idea that Sweden will join forces with Germany or acquiesce in any German move upon Swedish soil.

"Sweden's lot is with Norway," the spokesman said. "We hope to maintain our neutrality to the last, but it is absolutely out of the question that Sweden would join in any conflict which would oppose her to Norway.

"However, the German invasion of Norway has created a difficult third front for Sweden, since the Swedish-Norwegian border is not fortified and has been guarded only loosely.

"Therefore the landing of Allied troops in Norway is really a matter of urgency if Sweden is not be left exposed to a German attack on the south and west.'

DEMOLAYS MEET

New Chapter Gets Instructions From Advisory Board.

Instruction in the DeMolay order was given 93 members of the new Baku chapter at the initial meeting of the group last night in Grotto hall.

Headed by Charles L. Kafer, advisory board members explained various offices of the order. Brief talks were given by board members.

The second and fourth Thursday of each month was set as meeting dates for the chapter. Meetings will be held at Grotto hall. Election of officers will be held April 25. Masons from Shiloh, Lexington and Bellville attended the meeting. A special meeting of the chapter is scheduled for 7 p. m. next Wednesday at Grotto hall.

REPORT LOSS OF FIVE MORE GERMAN SHIPS

British Close In On Narvik Garrison; Nazis Cut Off From Communication.

diers who had escaped from Narvik and other travellers from the city who asserted that after the first battle of Narvik on Tuesday when British destroyers were beaten off by the Germans that a new battle was fought on Wednesday in which the British scored a victory.

They told me that the British launched their second attack at 5:35 a. m. Wednesday. One soldier told me that he watched from the shore at Narvik and saw three German destroyers sunk under British gun fire. Two more German destroyers, this man told me, blazed all day long in the fjord and finally were run aground on the rocky shore.

This naval action left Narvik cut off by sea from any communication with the outside world.

Norse Battle Nazis North of Oslo.

(By United Press)

STOCKHOLM, Sweden — Norwegian troops, reinforced by hastily mobilized reservists, were reported fighting fiercely against German infantry and mechanized units today on a line extending north and northeast of Oslo.

Kongsvinger, northeast of the capital near the Swedish frontier, was reported to be the main battle area for the present but it was indicated that there was heavy fighting also in the Elverum-Hamar section north of Oslo.

Germany was reported to have succeeded in reinforcing its occupation forces not only at Oslo but at Bergen and Stavanger, on the Norwegian southwest coast.

Refugees arriving in Sweden from Bergen were reported to have said that before the reinforcement, 2,200 German troops had been holding the city and its outskirts.

At least some of the German reinforcements for Oslo were reported to have landed at Doebac, south of Oslo, and to have marched on to the city.

Planes Bomb Elverum.

German planes were reported to have bombed Elverum repeatedly yesterday. Unconfirmed reports were that fires were burning in the city and that one army officer and one civilian had been killed and numerous civilians wounded.

The village of Gludmen, 20 miles north of Elverum, was reported to have been bombed and machine gunned.

It was reported that Frederikstad, on the east side of the Oslo fjord, had been almost completely evacuated after several German bombing raids had set fires.

Hamar railroad station was reported destroyed by bombs yesterday.

Members of the puppet group co-operating with Vidkun Quisling, "premier" of the regime, were reported without confirmation to have seized the Oslo radio station before the Germans arrived Tuesday and to have turned it over to the Germans.

Frontier reports said that German authorities at Oslo were watching all foreigners closely except Swedes, Danes and diplomatic and consular officials. All other foreigners were ordered to report to police for registration, with their passports and other identifying documents.

Norwegian troops were reported to be blowing up bridges and roads in the path of the Germans.

Charge British Bomb Danish Rail Station.

BERLIN—(UP)—The German official news agency asserted today that British airplanes had bombed a small railroad station in Schleswig Holstein in northwest Germany and that if it was established that the attack was deliberate, "Germany is given a complete new basis in waging the war against England."

"This is the first time in the war that enemy planes have attacked a German communications point," the agency said. "If repetition of such an attempt shows that it was planned Germany is given a complete new basis in waging the war against England. The necessary conclusions would immediately be drawn."

It was asserted that the attack on the railroad station was only "slightly successful," and that a sport field had been damaged and a window of the railroad station shattered.

Schleswig Holstein is in northwest Germany, adjoining Denmark, and is the territory which Germany troops crossed to occupy Denmark.

London Denies Air Raid on Rail Station.

LONDON — (INS) — German charges of a British aerial attack upon a railway station and sports stadium in Schlewig-Holstein were emphatically denied by the British government today.

But the admiralty announced that the Skagerrak and the Kattegat, the strategic waterways connecting the North and Baltic seas, had been mined, possibly immobilizing the German fleet.

At the same time, official statements told of British aerial attacks upon Nazi units in the Kattegat and in the Great Belt, the stormy body of water which separates the mainland of Denmark from the Island of Zeeland, where Copenhagen stands.

Holland Rushes Precautionary Measures.

AMSTERDAM —(INS)— Fearing that Holland's neutrality may be violated in Europe's spreading war, the government rushed precautionary measures today.

The first and second defense lines were huddiedly reinforced, hospitals in possible danger zones were evacuated and 1,000 women and children were evacuated from a factory at Eindhoven.

Dutch government and military authorities recommended that a strict watch be maintained over all Germans in the country.

There were reports that the German ministers to the Hague and to Brussels, Belgium, had departed for Germany. (These reports were denied by Reuters dispatches from the two capitals and later also in Berlin.)

Belgium Tightens Up Its Defenses.

BRUSSELS, BELGIUM—(U.P.)— Belgium is prepared to defend its territory against any attack and believes it is in position to make any invasion difficult if not dangerous, it was understood today.

Most extensive precautions, some of them effected within the last 48 hours, have been made to defend the frontiers and the Belgian troops are in a strong defensive line bristling with modern guns.

Well-informed sources denied the truth of reports published aboard of a German ultimatum to Belgium against placing itself under Allied protection.

Belgium had clearly reaffirmed its policy of neutrality Wednesday, it was said.

Lie Detector Tests Given Former Fremont Man.

FREMONT —(U.P.)— Investigation of the death of Walter Snyder, 23, Fremont sugar refinery worker, whose body was found floating in Sandusky river Dec. 17, was revived today when a man was taken into custody.

Police Chief Herman Schneider revealed that a 33-year-old former Fremont man, who had been in an Illinois hospital with leg injuries, returned voluntarily to Toledo to submit to a lie detector test.

There was little hope for immediate relief from the spring cold wave, the weatherman said. Fair and continued cold weather was forecast for tonight with a slight rise in temperature due Saturday.

While today's 18-degrees reading was the lowest for the date on record in Mansfield, it was two degrees colder on April 16, 1937, weather figures showed. By noon today the temperature had moderated to 26 degrees.

Despite the unusual cold, County Agent George B. Ganyard said today it was doubtful if crops and fruit trees were damaged.

He said all crops had been retarded by the cold weather and fruit buds and vegetables had not advanced far enough to suffer much damage from freezing weather.

All of State Hit.

While the snow was light in southern Ohio, all of the state was hit by the cold. It was 23 above at Cincinnati while the 22 above at Columbus was the lowest ever recorded there for the date. Toledo had 19 above this morning.

Air service was resumed today in the state after all flights were cancelled during the night. High winds lashed central and southern Ohio, causing slight damage to telephone and power lines in some sections.

The weather moderated today in the far northwest as the cold wave spread eastward and it was warmer in Minnesota than in Ohio and Texas. Coldest spot in the nation was Rapid City, S. D., with six above zero. It was only 13 above in northern Texas.

CAMPAIGN FUND TRIAL CLOSING

Pennsylvania Democrats at Republican Jury Mercy.

HARRISBURG, Pa. —(AP)— The case of State Chairman David L. Lawrence and seven other Pennsylvania Democrats accused of conspiring to force campaign contributions from state employes headed toward a jury of 12 Republicans today.

Only the charge by Judge Howard W. Hughes remained to be delivered.

District Attorney Carl B. Shelley told the jury assessment of capitol state employes for campaign donations was "a serious threat to good government."

Defense counsel stressed that former Atty. Gen. Charles J. Margiotti, originator of the accusations, felt "animosity" toward Lawrence.

Schmutzler, badly shaken but not seriously hurt, was taken to his home under physician's care after he had reported the theft to Officer Frend Boals who was summoned to the cafe, a half block from the scene of the robbery, on North Park Street.

According to Chief Bates, one of the gunmen was about 32 years old, 5 feet 7 inches tall, and weighed about 155 pounds. He was wearing a light brown camel's hair coat and dark brown hat. The other was reported as slightly older and heavier. He was 5 feet 8 and wore a dark brown coat.

The exact amount of money Schmutzler was carrying at the time of the robbery could not be learned but it was estimated at "several thousand dollars." The bandits got only the amount in the currency pouch and missed the remainder which the restaurateur was carrying in his pockets. pockets.

No More Back or Leg Pains Since She Took "Vendol"

Mansfield housewife declares there is no sign of old aches and agony since taking famous medicine and getting relief from constipation and sluggish kidneys.

MRS. HENRY SCHWARTZ

The famous medicine Vendol grows more popular here in Mansfield as more and more people take it and sales records continue to break, proving one thing—that Vendol is a medicine of real merit and does everything promised. It is not an accident that Vendol helps so many people who have failed to get relief before. Vendol is full-strength according to a carefully developed formula and we invite you to visit the Vendol Man at Central Drug Store and learn how the roots and herbs from which it is mostly made can help you. Mrs. Henry Schwartz of 300 Wayne Street, Mansfield will never regret taking Vendol and here is what she says:

"The past few years have really been bad ones for me. I was constantly troubled with constipation. This condition kept my stomach upset and always seemed out of sorts. There were a great many foods I didn't dare eat for fear of the sourness, gas, acid-risings and cramps that would follow. My nerves were pretty raw too, and if I awakened during the night, I never seemed to get back to sleep. I had more than my share of headaches and dizzy spells, but all these things were really the least of my worries. Why, the aches, in my back and legs were so bad that at times I could hardly keep going. Seemed if I bent over I would have to pull up with the help of some-pull up with the help olf some-kept me awake.

"I'm delighted with the relief Vendol and the Vendol laxative tablets have given me and I wouldn't take anything for it. They relieved my constipation and acted as a diuretic to my kidneys. I believe my bowels are acting better than ever before since I've been taking this great medicine.

"I eat lots of things that used to upset my stomach, my nerves are steady so that I enjoy restful sleep and best of all is that I have won blessed relief from those back and leg pains. I'm proud to recommend such a good medicine as Vendol."

Start today on this famous upbuilding medicine. All druggists sell Vendol and you can get full information about it from the Vendol Man at Central Drug Store, corner Main and 4th Streets.

Mansfield News-Journal
AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER
MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, APRIL 12, 1940.

Small cities have their problems—large cities have their dilemmas.

In a per capita way, you are now supposed to have $56.94 as your share of the money in circulation—or just about a week of Townsend pension apportionment.

It has been decided that a federal jobholder can pray for party success without violating the Hatch act—but other campaign activities are also to proceed as usual.

When Driving License Is Revoked

OCCASIONAL mention of revocation of a driver's license, for drunken driving or some other serious traffic offense, may not seem important to motorists who have not given thought to the inconvenience, and possible interference with employment, that results from such a penalty.

Many persons drive to and from their places of employment, and it is not always convenient to have someone else do the driving. Many others make motor trips over weekends or use their car for shopping, visiting friends, and a variety of other purposes.

As a familiar proverb puts it, "You never miss the water till the well runs dry," and you probably never fully appreciate the convenience of a car until you are deprived of its use.

Motorists who have indulged in the practice of driving after drinking might well give some thought to this subject at a time when they are sober.

Anxious To Make Safe Loans

PERHAPS never before were banks so eager to make sound loans, and to put the money for which they are trustees, to productive use. The typical commercial bank of today does everything possible to attract and serve the legitimate borrower.

Figures back up that statement. During the first half of last year, more than 14,000 loans were made during every banking hour by 41 per cent of the nation's commercial banks covered in a survey. The 6,000 banks reporting made close to 6,000,000 new loans totaling more than $10,000,000,000—renewed over 5,500,000 old loans totaling almost $7,700,000,000, and issued over 127,000 mortgage loans totaling $412,000,000. This amounted to the incredible sum of $18,000,000,000—all in a six-months period.

It is obvious that the banks cannot loan to an insolvent business, or to a prospective borrower with a bad credit and character record. But no person who is entitled to a loan, under the terms of state and federal law, need worry about getting the money he needs for any sound purpose.

Half Century of Useful Service

FITTING recognition is being given in Galion this weekend to the golden jubilee of the priesthood of the Rev. Father A. H. Schreiner, with forty-one years of his half century of service devoted to the Galion pastorate.

From that January day in 1899 when Father Schreiner arrived in Galion, as a young priest, to enter upon the duties of what was then the double pastorate of St. Joseph's and St. Patrick's churches, he has worked earnestly and faithfully among his own parishioners and has also manifested an active interest in the community of which he has been a part.

With so much time required for study and for performance of his pastoral tasks, an interesting sidelight on the untiring energy and unfailing enthusiasm of Father Schreiner is found in the fact that even his few leisure hours were not spent idly but were devoted to a constructive hobby—handicraft, in which he found relaxation and rest from the strain and responsibilities of his church duties.

Among those privileged to enjoy acquaintanceship with Father Schreiner it will not be wondered that observance of his golden jubilee extends beyond the confines of his own parish to include thousands of friends in Galion and vicinity and throughout the Toledo diocese.

Even with fifty years of service in the priesthood already to his credit, it is hoped that Father Schreiner may be privileged to continue active in his fine work for many more years.

Rounding Up the Metal

PROPERTY owners in Italy have been ordered to tear down and turn over to the government all iron grilles. An effort to get this done voluntarily was not successful; hence the decree which can be enforced. Metal lamp posts and supports for power lines are expected to go next, writes Signor Gayda, for the "better purpose of being transformed into arms and instruments of labor."

Germany, too, is collecting metal. There has been no gold in circulation there since the World war. Silver coins were withdrawn in 1934. Now the government calls in all coins containing nickel and copper. The nickel coins will be replaced by aluminum, the copper ones by paper.

To set a good example to the nation in this metal collection, Adolf Hitler is reported to have ordered down the bronze doors of the chancellory. These fine doors have been one of the sights of Berlin. Now their artistic value must be disregarded. Metal has more important uses in war-making lands.

Democracy In the Home

AT LEAST one sociologist says Father no longer rules the family, but that democracy is now practised in the home. Fifty years ago, says Dr. Edmund Brunner of Columbia university, paternal dictatorship was the rule. Exceptions may have existed, but were too few to count.

It is interesting to have Dr. Brunner suggest that the dictatorship has not merely shifted from Father to Mother. Some less scientific observers believe that to be the case.

Probably the sociologist is more nearly right than facetious critics of the domestic scene admit. There certainly is more democracy in the home so far as children are concerned. They have a voice in most plans and procedures and, according to some observers, any vestige of dictatorship that persists is really exercised by them.

A western woman whose husband left home in 1904 expresses belief that he doesn't intend to return—and anyhow she's forgotten what she intended to say to him.

A new pocket radio weighing nine ounces has been announced—and one combined with an ordinary-sized cigaret lighter is being interestedly awaited.

"Confucius say" is dying out—apparently having taken too much thought on the part of persons unaccustomed to such exercise.

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—Rubes, road apples and heel beaters . . . here we go on a Broadway Lexicon . . . You can't understand what the writers are writing about unless you know what the words mean . . . Let's borrow a pencil and take down a few words and phrases . . . They're words that are used every day, but they're peculiar to the theater, and only the insiders know what they mean.

Heel-beater—a hoofer, or dancer. . . . Angel—financial backer of a play . . . born in a trunk—a term meaning born into a theatrical family . . . Dicky Bird—an actor who sings as well as acts . . . sock and buskin—an old term for comedy and tragedy.

TURKEY—a show that is a financial failure . . . tommers—actors who play in Uncle Tom's Cabin . . . patsy—an assistant who does all the work . . . road apple—a player on tour . . . play doctor—an authority on dramatic writing, called in to revise a faulty script . . . house full of paper — an audience admitted largely on free passes . . . baby spot—a small spotlight.

Mr. Bones—one of the end men in a minstrel show . . . burnt cork—a makeup agent generally used for minstrel shows . . . click—a slang word for success . . . get the hook—to be hissed off the stage . . . do a brodie—slang for falling down in a scene . . . tall grass—one night stands . . . S. R. O.—standing room only.

They're handcuffed—an audience that does not applaud . . . brush off—theatrical slang meaning to get rid of—ad lib—to extemporize or interpolate with impromptu remarks . . . Savoyard—actors who appear in Gilbert and Sullivan operettas . . . tank town—small rural communities in the sticks, where shows play one nighters . . . ducats—free tickets.

RUBE — stock character who plays the part of a hick in the city . . . Annie Oakley—a free pass to any entertainment . . . at leisure—unemployed actors are "at leisure" . . . balloon—an actor who goes up in his lines . . . barnstorm—to give performances from town to town . . . blackface—same as burnt cork makeup . . . blizzard head—a pronounced blond' . . . black wax—material used to block out a tooth.

Breaking—Broadway parlance for the closing of a show . . . B. O.—box office, meaning receipts . . . broadside—a sheet printed on one side announcing a play . . . burleycue—farce term for burlesque . . . butcher—slang for peddler . . . cackle—British slang for dialogue . . . casting agent—a middleman for actors and producers.

Note: For a complete lexicon of theatrical terms, see The Theater Handbook, by Bernard Sobel, a superb summary of plays, players, and playwrights from Sophocles to Saroyan.

Toupee-tape—double-faced adhesive used to hold wigs and whiskers in place . . . two-a-day—vaudeville term meaning matinee and evening performance twenty-four sheet—large poster or billboard used for advertising . . . doubling in brass—to play two parts . . . and, tag—the final speech of a scene or an act, serving as a cue for the curtain.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Monday, April 12, 1920.

Rapid progress was being made on construction of Columbia Tire & Rubber Co., plant, Sixth and Bowman streets.

Fire damaged large garage in rear of France apartments, West Second street.

B. F. Daugherty, 38, died of burns sustained in accident two weeks previously.

Several Mansfield Rotarians and their wives went to Toledo to attend district conference.

Capital stock of Ideal Electric company was increased to $500,000.

City and interurban railway service was tied up by sleet on trolley wires.

Charles W. Walker sustained fractured jaw in accident at Walker's Lake.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Friday, April 12, 1935.

The second anniversary of the Sarah E. Lewis Junior club was celebrated at Memorial hall.

J. C. Penny, founder of the organization bearing his name, visited in Mansfield.

Edward Lancaster Davidson, 40, died.

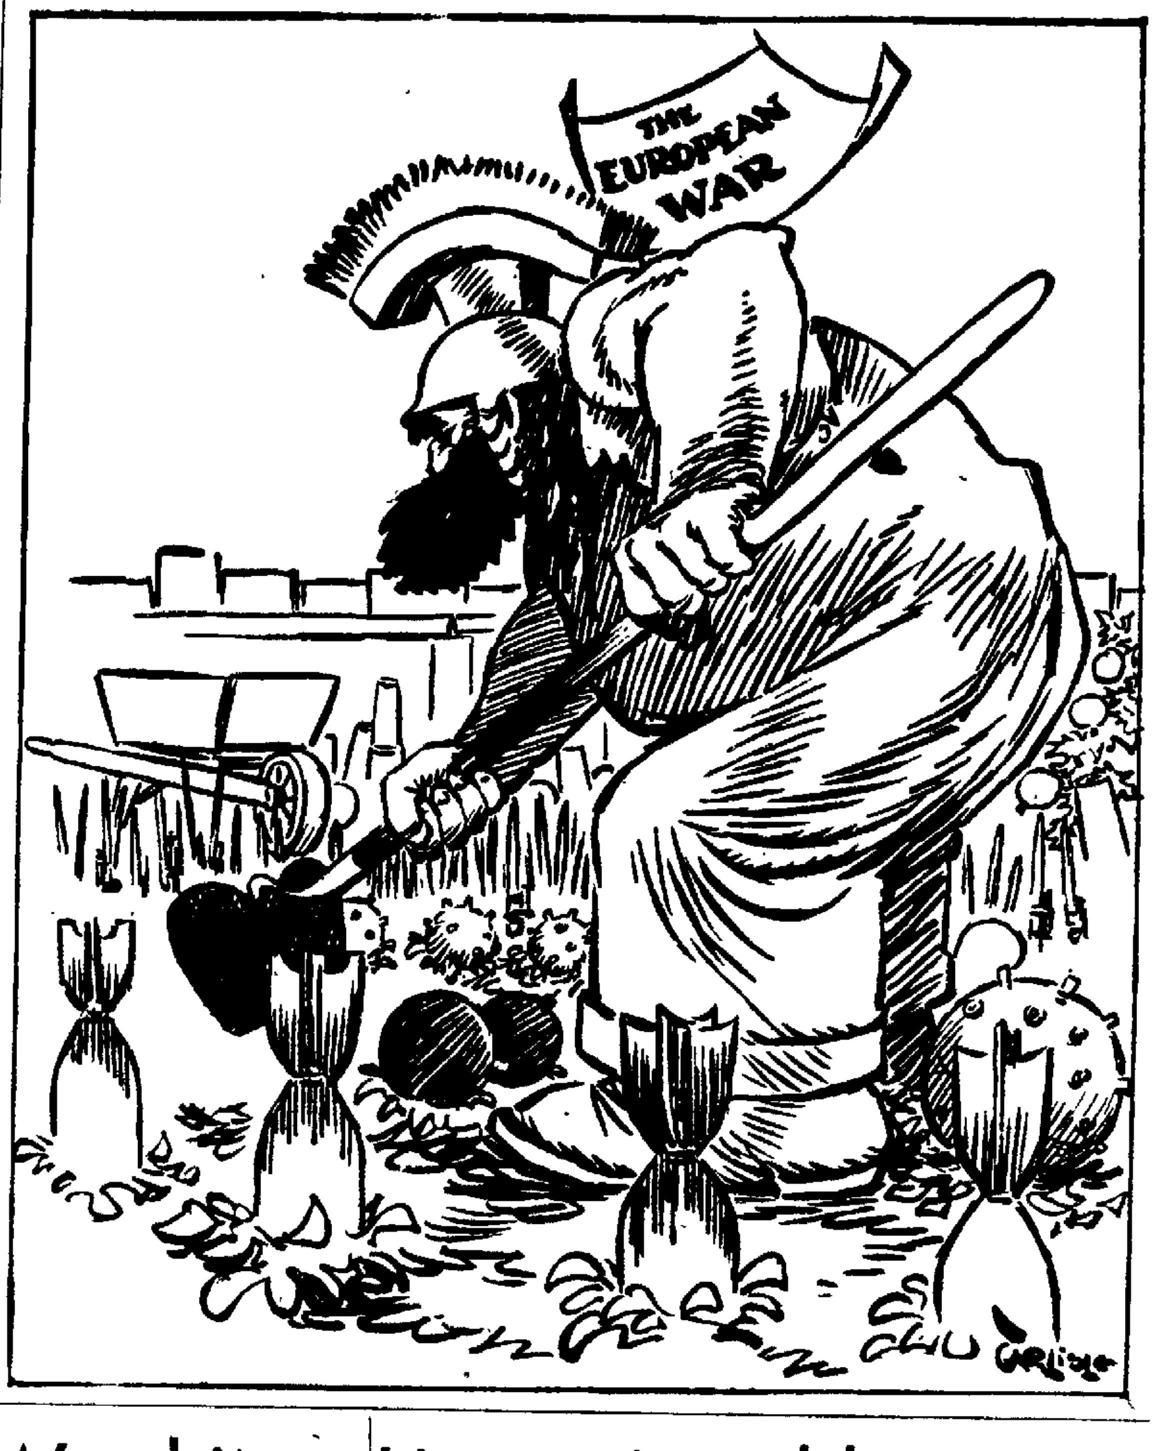
THE SPRING GARDENER



Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — The capital certainly has cashed in on that gift from Tokyo—the Japanese cherry trees.

What the Tournament of the Roses is to Pasadena, the Mardi Gras to New Orleans, the annual county fair to Midriff City—so is the annual Cherry Blosson festival to Washington.

But the capital fathers have a problem that makes any that might arise in those cities seem trivial. From February on, committees from the board of trade, merchants, innkeepers, historical societies and transportation companies are in constant session with the weatherman, horitculturists and the park department. The problem is: When will the cherry blossoms blossom?

If They're Wrong.

RECORDS for years back show the capital's 3,000 cherry trees have burst their buds anywhere from March 20 (single blossom trees and the only kind in the Tidal Basin, where they always take those pictures) to May 1 (the double-blossom varieties). With five weeks to guess in, you can see what a problem the capital fathers have picking a day. When they pick wrong there's nothing to do but postpone the blessed event.

Once they have hit on a date, though, the mills of the business gods start grinding and Washington prepares for its biggest season of the year. Excursion trains run from New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and other cities. The hotels jam to the fire escapes.

From beaneries to department stores, the merchants hawk their wares in Cherry Blosson sales. Traffic becomes a shambles. Cars by the tens of thousands pour across Flood Gate Bridge down into Cherry Blosson Lane. Pedestrians clog the pathways. Amateur photographers snap atrocities on miles of film. Old inhabitants swear oaths and take their annual vows never to mingle with this mob again.

A Queen, Too.

EVEN as in the orange, cotton, tobacco, apple and other festivals of other cities, the Cherry Blosson festival has its queen. Just to show how widespread is becoming the affair here, this year's Queen Rose Colliflower lists among her princesses, Shirley Tholen, Leavenworth, Kas.; Alice Betty Nichols, Chicago; Grace Dexter, Dallas, Texas.; Jane Winchester, Wilmington, Del., and Rosemary Burns, Shreveport, La.

And all of this because, 28 years ago, the city fathers of Tokyo persisted (the first batch of trees they sent over were buggy and had to be burned—so they sent a second batch) in playing hands across-the-sea.

But don't get me wrong. I love Washington, the cheery trees—and all the hocus-pocus that goes with both of them.

Listen, World!

Remarks To Haters.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

YOU asked for it. And you're going to get it. On account o' what? On account of all those thousands of letters that come piling onto my desk during these war times, telling me what people to hate and how much. Letters from persons who are "proud to call themselves Americans." So they want me to hurl my meanest journalism at all the other Americans who "aren't Americans really but just Jews or Germans or Italians or maybe English or French."

To which communications I have just one answer—THEY SMELL.

And I hereby serve notice to all fans who desire me to commit their racial pogroms for them that they can hire their own back yard, buy their own knives and do it on themselves. But before they start, I would like to make a few remarks.

I am an American. My blood is as mixed as any that ever beat beneath our national flag, including our muchly advertised Mayflower commuters. Old world people gave me my body but—

The vision of freedom and fair play which flames in my heart today . . . and the opportunity which is mine under that vision . . . was not given to me by any one people. It was given to me by the mingled hope and courage, faith and sacrifice of all peoples who have spent soul and body to build this America.

It was given to me by the Jews who enriched my horizon with their drama . . who challenged my laziness with their industry . . . who won my respect by the beauty and constancy of their home life.

It was given to me by the Germans . . . lusty, laughing, quickening the soul of this nation with their unconquerable youth . . building great cities out of their own abundance.

It was given to me by the Russians, whose stubborn virility helped to tame and mold the frontier west in which I was born.

It was given to me by the Italians and the Spaniards and the Mexicans whose laughter lifted the veils of my Irish tears.

Out of all these as well as out of Scotch and English veins comes the heritage which is ours today, fellow Americans. And you cannot deny their place in our hearts and homes unless you deny all America and all that America stands for.

Yes, I can hate. I can and do hate Hitler for his cruelty. I can and do hate Stalin for his viciousness. And if anyone asks me about Mr. Chamberlain, I'm not so hot for him either. Nor have I been any too radiantly proud of certain American leaders. But these are men. The kind of men who massacre Poles, organize an opium trade, or cheat Indians. And that kind of human being is confined to no one nation or cause. They are always raising hell somewhere.

But the great mass of human beings do not want to raise hell. They may be and are deceived and exploited, but in their simple friendly way they go fumbling on toward health and harmony—and heaven.

So any sour-minded citizen who wants to drag this column into any European brawl via Brooklyn, Milwaukee, Chicago or San Francisco knows right where he can get off. And had better start going.

Timely Editorial

Dudley White For Senator.

That Congressman Dudley A. White will be a formidable candidate for the Republican nomination for U. S. Senator and, if nominated, an equally formidable candidate for the election, his constituents of the 13th District fully believe. The way in which he carried elections for representative to congress show it. Particularly do the majorities given him by Wood country demonstrate the high esteem in which he is held where intimately known.

He will carry into his campaign in Ohio for the senatorship a fine record of service, of great industry, and of intelligent, constructive criticism of the New Deal. His addresses on the Constitution have shown him thoroughly in accord with the spirit of the great instrument of human justice; and his forceful way of presenting his thoughts on the platform impresses audiences with his sincerity.

His understanding of people is not only intuitive but is aided by the fact that he started life in a very humble way and by his efforts and his personality reached the success in business which he is enjoying. He therefore knows the problems of life from that of the weary, youthful toiler to those of the business world.—Bowling Green Sentinal-Tribune.

Ohio Anecdotes

Versatile Journalist.

WHITELAW REID was one of Ohio's most versatile natives. Born near Xenia Oct. 27, 1837, he was educated chiefly at Miami university.

During the Civil war, Reid doubled as a Federal army captain and war correspondent for the Cincinnati Gazette. After the war he was appointed librarian of the House of Representatives.

Once associated with the New York Tribune, Reid rose rapidly through various editorial office jobs to the editorship. He once was defeated as Republican candidate for vice president.

He served on several diplomatic missions, including the commission which drew up in Paris the United States-Spanish treaty terminating the Spanish - American war. He finally was named U. S. ambassador to Great Britain.

Spring Signs

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE snow has melted from the northern hillsides and where it so lately pressed upon the faded grass is a border of deeper green. Here I caught the lush odor of new growth. Each little tender blade, each broadening leaf, each unfolding bud seems to enjoy the fragrant breath of spring. April showers drench the stirring earth and patches of deep blue alternate with clouds upon the sky. Sunshine brings rainbows and the promise of growing season near at hand.

Today along the old fencerow where the mold was rich and deep I saw the modest heads of bloodroot show. I sat upon my knees and scratched the dark mould away until I found the fleshy roots. I pulled one up and saw a large drop of "blood" trickle from the wound like scarlet dew. Hepaticas, long buried beneath a layer of last year's leaves, show fresh green leaves that peep from the moistened bed, while the first lavendar petals show plainly about the center of the bursting bud upon its hairy stem. Frost can even rent upon its leaves and snow may blanket the rich tone of the flowers. It will survive for it is anchored in the moist warmth of the kind woods floor.

Skunk cabbage stands five inches tall in the well-watered meadow. The boll-like crown is crisp and tender green. It looks better than it smells. I saw a rabbit lying on his side beside some larger stalks, basking in the sun. In the half hour I watched I saw him move on his other side, roll half over on his back, then flat upon his belly. Perhaps the offensive odor of skunk cabbage furnishes him a spring tonic, or rids him of vermin.

The quail secluded in the brush and weeds calls so loud that it echoes from the hill. The redheaded woodpecker sounds his messages in dots and dashes high upon a hollow snag. The noisy crows fly uncertainly about the valley and feed on worms and the flesh of wild folk that have perished during the winter. The cardinal whistles from the orchard slope. The peewee screams her lively message from the shelter of brambles near the house. The meadow lark mounts from his dewy bed of grass and sings his sweet melodious song upon the wing.

What surging romance is expressed among our feathered neighbors of the air, and what a wealth of song rises from the April fields and woods!

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The state department soon will issue a statement regarding extremely important conversations which have been taking place behind closed doors with two representatives of the Allies. They were held in an effort to straighten out some of the irritations in U. S.-Allied relations, such as the curtailment of tobacco purchases, the stoppage of fruit shipments, the violation of trade treaties.

Regarding those, the conferences have been a disappointment. But one most significant point has been developed. For the British and French have shown by implication that they have given up any expectation that this country might enter the war.

At every point, British Frank Ashton-Gwatkin and French Charles Rist have been courteous but firm. Their theme in effect has been, "After all, we are fighting a war. Trade with you must come second. American sympathy will not kill the enemy."

They have made a few trifling concessions, but even while the talks were going on, the British aggravated the problem by loading on further trade restrictions. This made Cordell Hull boil, fearful of adverse effects on the Senate debate over trade agreements. But when Ashton-Gwatkin cabled London urging moderation, the British remained unmoved.

The opening conversation here was typical. Henry G. Grady, assistant secretary of state in charge of trade agreements, began with a statement of U. S. grievances against the Allied blockade. When he had finished, Ashton-Gwatkin wrung his fleshy hands and said:

"I hardly know how to reply in the face of these—what shall I say?—animadversions against my government. After all—ah—we are fighting with our backs to the wall, so to speak."

When U. S. officials suggested that this was a short-sighted policy which would antagonize the American people, the Allied representatives made it clear that they were not courting U. S. favor and not hoping for U. S. entrance into the war.

Kennedy's Senate Poll.

THIS attitude is based partly on reports of growing anti-war sentiment in this country. For instance, Ambassador Joe Kennedy told British officials how he had taken a private poll of the senate, and found 22 senators who had voted for lifting the embargo last fall who would vote the other way if the issue were presented now.

In view of this sentiment, the Allies have decided they have nothing to gain by weakening their blockade or increasing their expenditure of dollars in the United States.

Any concessions made will be in their own interest. The British Tommy must have tobacco, and the British government will probably resume buying American flue-cured tobacco, either from stocks held by Commodity Credit Corporation, or from the new crop when it comes in. But in order to conserve dollar exchange, they are looking for some means of taking the tobacco on credit.

This, of course, would run up against the Johnson Act, and might start again the old World war system of pumping U. S. money into Europe.

Political Chaff.

NEW ENGLAND, New York and New Jersey GOP leaders are receiving letters from Midwestern colleagues warning that to win the farm vote the party platform must contain a farm plank similar to that proposed in the recent Glenn Frank report. The Iowa state central Republican committee thought so highly of the Frank plank that it is circularizing a speech by A. M. Piper, of the Council Bluffs Nonpareil, lauding it. . . . Latest politico to climb aboard the Townsend old-age pension wagon is West Virginia's buck-toothed Senator Rush Holt, who faces a tough reelection fight this year. Holt will be one of the guest speakers at the Townsend convention in St. Louis. . . Asked by a newsman how he kept up his grilling campaign pace, Tom Dewey replied with a grin, "You've got to love it." . . . Harry Sauthoff, former Wisconsin congressman and veteran LaFollette leader, will shortly toss his hat into the ring or Progressive candidate against Republican Governor Julius Heil.

More Wire-Tapping.

DESPITE all the hullabaloo about wire-tapping, odds are strong that the justice department will resume the practice of cutting in on the telephone lines of kidnapers and foreign spies.

Pressure for wire-tapping in espionage cases comes from the state, war and navy departments, which have taken it direct to the White House. Present indications are that the president will ask Attorney General Jackson to recind his order that FBI men should do no more wire-tapping.

What particularly aroused the state, war and navy departments was the fact that on the date Jackson issued his order, J. Edgar Hoover's men had located a plot to sabotage the Queen Mary, then lying in New York harbor. They had tapped the wires of German agents and actually were listening to a plot to blow up the pride of the British passenger fleet.

But following the Jackson order, they had to stop listening in on the plot—just one day before the big vessel sailed.

* * *

"Roosevelt" Arrested.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT called in Super-Sleuth Hoover the other day to discuss the pros and cons of wire-tapping. However, they also discussed another subject.

The president called attention to a case where a man had been convicted and sentenced for impersonating a federal officer, and another case where a man was arrested for impersonating a member of the Roosevelt family, but not convicted.

"I suppose," grinned the president, "that it was enough punishment to be a member of the Roosevelt family."

Bean Soup.

EVERY day for nearly half a century the menu of the senate restaurant has listed this plebeian item: "Old-fashioned bean soup, 15 cents." It is a standing joke with regular patrons, few of whom know that the dish is a tribute to a statesman who carved a notable record in the senate—Knute Nelson of Minnesota.

Bean soup got its start in 1895, shortly after Nelson began his 28-year senatorial career. One day after scanning the menu, he threw down his napkin in disgust and walked over to the manager.

"Look here," he complained, "you serve just about everything but the thing I like best. I've been eating bean soup every day since I was a boy and just can't do without it."

The restaurant manager promised to produce bean soup, and it quickly became so popular that it has been continued on the menu ever since.

Note: One other dish that appears unfailingly on the senate menu every day is apple pie—also 15 cents an order.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"To Die In Harness."

As often as not, the man who dies in harness today, dies in bed; but that is not how it started.

The expression comes to us from the days when dying in harness meant being killed on the battlefield, clad in a coat of mail.

The allusion, in other words, is to the "working clothes" of the soldier and war-horse, a significance the story of the word "harness' makes abundantly clear.

We have it from the Old English harneis, of Celtic origin, meaning "old iron, armor."

Hence the natural phrase "to die in harness" for the expiration of man or animal in uniform of general armor,—which was practically always carrying on their business; the last sense is all that has survived in this figure of speech.

STATE WORKERS ORGANIZE CLUB

COLUMBUS —(UP)— A camera club is being organized with the avowed purpose of increasing the comraderie among employes in the State Office building.

Enthusiastic repsonse of about 25 prospective members indicate the club will thrive. Organized pursuit of the hobby is aimed at obtaining better photography and new friends.

Organization is under direction of Walter Lauffer, photographer for the Conservation department, and C. A. Hamrick of the highway department.

Men, Women! Old at 40, 50, 60! Get Pep

Feel Years Younger, Full of Vim

Don't blame exhausted, worn-out, run-down feeling on your age. Thousands amazed at what a little pepping up with Ostrex will do. Contains oyster concentrates, general tonics, elements often needed after 40—by bodies lacking iron, calcium, phosphorus, iodine, Vitamin B$_1$. A 73-year-old doctor writes: "I took it myself. Results fine." Get 35c size Ostrex tablets today for 29c. Stop feeling old. Start feeling peppier and younger this very day.

TIME WASTED

FINDLAY, O. —(AP)— Time is wasted and traffic's congested by too many "stop" and "go" traffic lights here. At least that's the concensus of many complaints received by the Findlay city council.

"I venture to say that Findlay has more traffic lights per square mile than any other city of its size in the country," Councilman Howard A. Bush averred. So, Council President George Caughman appointed a committee to determine whether many of the signals couldn't be replaced by the caution type.

CHAPTER XIV.

"All right, if that's the way you want it." Helen had regained some of her composure and smiled in a friendly manner at Elaine. "I know what you think of me and I guess I really can't blame you. If you change your mind about the check, you can write me. I'll be back in California in a few days. Eric will be there too; I'm taking him back with me tonight."

Before Elaine could say anything, Helen had risen from her chair and was walking coolly away from her. It was not until she passed through the door that Elaine managed to regain some of her poise. Burning rage gave way to determination.

She would have to see Eric. She would have to take the afternoon off and go over to his hotel. She would tell him that she wanted to marry him right away. She didn't have to worry about Mrs. Reardon's feelings now; it was Helen she must thwart, Helen who would take all she could get from Eric and then toss him aside when she no longer needed him.

* * *

Myrtle was sitting on the stool in the dressing-room when Elaine burst in through the door. She snuffed out her cigaret and stood up, her face eager.

"She is a debutante, isn't she, Elaine?" she cried excitedly. "Do you think that sometime you could introduce me to her? I've always wanted to meet one of those bluebloods."

"She—she's a tramp!" Elaine flared, unbuttoning her uniform with trembling finger. "But she won't get the best of me."

Myrtle looked a little confused by this and appeared as though she were going to ask questions, but apparently deciding that now was hardly the appropriate time for that, she pulled another cigaret from the package and placed it silently between her lips.

"Myrtle, will you explain to Mr. Graves that I had to go home?" Elaine asked as she slipped into her dress. "Tell him I'm sick—or—or anything. I'll be back tomorrow."

"Oke," Myrtle agreed. She sighed softly. "Nope, I guess she ain't no debutante. They got too much manners to make a person as mad as you are. I hope you give her a licking!"

It wasn't until she was running madly down the street that Elaine remembered she didn't know Eric's address. She stopped dead in her tracks, an annoyed cry bursting from her lips. But perhaps it was just as well. In all likelihood Helen would be at Eric's place and if she went there, there probably would be a scene. It was better for her to return to the apartment and wait for Eric to come. And he would come; even if he had decided to return to California he would at least come to say goodbye. Elaine was suddenly glad that the events of the past week had proved she was stronger mentally than he; if he had decided to return to California she could make him change his mind. That would be easy if she told him she wanted to marry him—at once!

Jane was lying face down on the sofa, crying as though her very heart was breaking when Elaine dashed into the apartment 15 minutes later. She halted in her rush across the room, the surprise of seeing Jane in tears having the effect of causing her to forget her own worries. She stared down at her roommate a moment and then, as Jane's sobs became more wracking, she rushed over to her and knelt down beside the couch.

* * *

"Jane," Elaine asked sympathetically, "what in the world is the matter? What's happened? Goodness, I never saw you this way!"

Jane turned around on the sofa and raised a grief-swollen face to hers. She sniffed, making a determined effort to halt the tears.

"Jack O'Malley is sending for his girl in Ireland," she told Elaine, dabbing at her eyes with her handkerchief. "He's sending her the money so that she can come over and marry him."

Elaine had known that Jack was saving his money against just this happy event, but she could not figure out the cause for Jane's tears. Her face drew into a perplexed frown.

"But that's nothing to cry about," she told Jane softly. "I thought you liked Jack and would be happy when he could marry the girl."

Jane sniffed, and once again tiny tears appeared in her eyes. "I—I can't be happy, Elaine. You see, I—I love him!"

The confession evoked another storm of tears and Elaine drew her roommate's head to her shoulder. She glanced pityingly down at her trembling body but said nothing, letting Jane cry herself out. But Jane's admission had surprised her. Never since they began living together had her roommate in any way indicated that her affection for Jack was more than a friendly one. Although she had always wondered why Jane permitted the Irish policeman the run of the house she had assumed that she did this simply because she liked him. But in love with him? Somehow she had always felt that Jane considered herself far above such an utterly human emotion.

"I never told him about it," Jane said, regaining her control. "The very first day I met him he told me about the beautiful colleen he had seen and fallen in love with the time he took a trip to Ireland. I didn't think it would be fair for me to take advantage of the opportunities I did have to tell him how I felt because of the fact that the girl was unable to fight back. I thought that Jack would forget her after a while and might even begin to notice me. But, well . . ." She shrugged her shoulders and turned her eyes away.

"Say, what are you doing here at this time of day?" she asked suddenly. "Don't tell me you were fired!"

Elaine rose to her feet and walked quietly about the room. Jane's question had made her recall her own problem. In simple words she told her friend all that had occurred, just what she planned to do. Jane's face was grave when she finished, and if Elaine had expected any sympathy she was disappointed, for Jane was that type of person who can say only what she sincerely believes.

"If you were as smart as I think you are you'd let Helen take him back to California if she can make him go with her," she said crisply, apparently forgetting her own troubles in her desire to help Elaine. "And as for marrying him, I don't think Helen will ever give you the chance. That girl knows what she wants and is terribly determined to get it, no matter what she has to do."

A ghost of a smile touched Elaine's lips, but her eyes were flashing. "That's what you think," she told Jane grimly. "But I'll never give Eric to her. When he comes this evening you'll see who wins out."

"What makes you thing he'll come this evening?" Jane queried quietly.

"He'll come," Elaine said with more confidence than she really felt. "And if he doesn't, I'll see him—even if I have to return to California."

Yes, that was what she would do, Elaine decided, sinking into a chair. Nothing could ever prevent her marrying Eric now. Even if she didn't love him she would still marry him just for the satisfaction of knowing she had thwarted Helen's despicable plans.

The hours passed slowly away and the room suddenly seemed to have become charged with an electric tension as she sat quietly in her chair waiting Eric's arrival. Neither of the girls said much of anything for, preoccupied as they were in their private problems, words would have proved annoying.

Jane was seated before the easel working carefully upon her painting and Elaine watched her brush as she moved it carefully over the canvas. She was amazed at Jane's dexterity and decided with an absent air that some day she would try painting just to see what it was like.

It seemed years before the sun finally set and the gray gloom of night pervaded the room, and Elaine became aware of a growing tension within her. She tapped her fingers restlessly on the arm of the chair and tried not to think of the time as the clock slowly tolled nine. It was late, of course, but Eric would not fail her.

Glancing up nervously, she found Jane's eyes upon her and forced a smile to her lips. But she knew she was not fooling Jane. Her roommate knew she was worried. Worried? But of course she wasn't worried. Something had come up to delay Eric. He would come . . .

The loud knock on the door brought her eagerly to her feet. She fairly flew across the room, elation displacing the gloom and nervousness of a moment before. With a happy smile she flung open the door.

"Eric!"

Elaine caught him by the hand and fairly dragged him into the apartment. Closing the door with a bang, she glanced eagerly up into his face, cheeks radiant with happiness. "I was beginning to think you'd never come. What delayed you?"

"Delayed me?" he looked quizzicaly at the clock across the room "Why, it's just nine. That isn't so late."

Jane snickered as she rose from her chair and sauntered slowly towards them. She paused with maddening deliberation before Eric, her eyes frankly appraising him, and Elaine, realizing that her roommate was consciously prolonging the suspense, ached with the desire to throw her from the room.

But before she could say one word to hasten Jane's departure, the girl turned with an eloquent shrug to the door, "I'll be down in Mamma Gambino's," she told Elaine with a sniff.

Eric fidgeted uneasily as the door closed softly behind her. With a peculiar, wistful sort of smile he crossed the room and sat down on the couch. "I'm sorry she doesn't like me," he said with a sigh. "I've known all along that she doesn't think I'm good enough for you."

Elaine shrugged her shoulders, more annoyed with Jane than she cared to admit. She crossed the room and sank to the couch ebside him.

"Jane is just the type of girl who doesn't think any man is good enough for any woman," she said, attempting to sooth his injured feelings. Sne sighed and tapped her hands restlessly together. When would they stop talking around the subject that interested them most? She was well aware of the fact that Helen had visited him too. How else could she have learned where she worked? And from his preoccupied manner she guessed that this visit was uppermost in his thoughts. The tension in the room seemed to heighten with each passing, silent minute and finally, unable to withstand the suspense any longer and instinctively knowing that he was at a loss as to how to begin, she took a deep breath and plunged in.

"I saw Helen this afternoon," she told him abruptly, eagerly watching his face for a hint of what his feelings were. "She offered me a check if I promised to leave you alone."

He looked at her sharply. "Why didn't you accept it? Fifty thousand dollars is a lot of money."

Elaine laughed softly. "No one has to pay me to leave you alone, Eric. If—if you don't want to marry me all you have to do is say so. I won't ever bother you again."

His eyes brightened and with a speed almost magical, the grave, preoccupied expression vanished fro mhis face. He grasped her hands in his and drew her close. "Elaine—I found a job this afternoon!"

If she lived to be a hundred Elaine knew that never again would she know the happiness of that moment. Speechless with joy, she flung her arms around his neck, too consumed with happiness to speak, too confused to do anything more than stare into his exultant eyes. She knew she should say something, anything, just to let him know what she felt, but who could express joy, who could reduce to cold, inanimate words the mad, exciting, almost wild emotions that surged riotously within her?

"It isn't much of a job, though," he said softly, holding her tight. "Only a stock clerk in the Blanchard store and the salary is only sixteen dollars a week. But it's a start, Elaine. Who knows how far I'll be able to go?"

"You'll go a long way," Elaine said confidently, running a tender hand through his hair, eyes shining with the warmth of her feelings. "I'm positive of that."

SOCIETY & CLUBS

SMALL SOCIAL UNITS CONDUCT SESSIONS

Yesterday Afternoon, Evening Chosen By Many for Card Games, Contests; Annual Dinner and Luncheon Parties.

IN CONTRAST to Wednesday which was busy with meetings of study clubs of every variety, yesterday's interests turned to smaller social units for entertainment. Mrs. Helen Erndt, Vale avenue, was hostess to a new club on the Mansfield horizon when she entertained the Cotton Jugglers at her home.

Following the evening business meeting, contests were conducted and Mrs. Catherein Ronanski won the prize. After the serving of refreshments, Mrs. Sue Yarga, West Third street, invited the group to her home for the meeting of April 25.

All members of the We club were present at the home of Mrs. Vern Moser, 120 South Foster street, last night for a 6:30 p. m. dinner followed by cards. The diversion was in play at four tables with prizes going to Mrs. Oscar Garver, Mrs. Clyde Neff, and the four guests, Mrs. Rose Carson, Mrs. Clarence Lehnhart, Mrs. Clark Moser and Mrs. Lowell Morgan.

The next meeting will be held May 1 with Mrs. Fred Morgan, East First street.

Hearts were played at two tables last night when Mrs. Joseph Mascioli, East Sixth street, entertained L'Amici club. Prizes were won by Mrs. Patsy LaSusa and Mrs. Anthony Mollica. Luncheon was served at the small tables which were decorated in green and white appointments. Mrs. Mollica, 336 West Sixth street, will entertain April 25.

Octave club members were the guests of Mrs. Burdell Blaney, Ridge road, last night. Cards were played, and prizes were won by Miss Helen Stuhldreher and Miss Virginia Walker. The next meeting will be held April 25 with Miss Stuhldreher, 222 Lexington avenue. Refreshments were served at the small tables following the meeting.

A 1 o'clock luncheon was served to members of the O. H. O. club yesterday at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Armstrong, Springmill road. There were eight members and one guest, Mrs. John Friday, present. Spring flowers were used to decorate the table.

Following the business meeting contests were conducted and Mrs. D. B. Wolfgang, Mrs. Friday, Mrs. Frank Brannon and Mrs. E. P. Cook were awarded the prizes. The next meeting will be held April 25 with Mrs. William Birmelin, Newman street.

Miss Jean Sebring entertained members of the Sew-a-Stitch club last evening at her home on Wellington avenue. Prizes in the games were by the Misses Lillian and Helen Rupanovic and Diane Guegold. Refreshments were served at the close of the games. Miss Jane McClure will have the meeting of April 25 at her home, 145 Glenwood boulevard.

* * *

There was one guest, Mrs. Tom Alexander, present at the meeting of the Get-Together club which was attended by 13 members at the home of Mrs. George Hostetter, Belmont avenue. Games were played, and prizes were won by Mrs. Ethline Stinehour, Mrs. Louise Haag and Mrs. Florence Mehl. Luncheon was served, and the next meeting will be held April 25 with Mrs. James Elliott, 347 West Sixth street.

Class Has Party Feting Miss Poth

Miss Doris Poth, who will become the bride of Michael Panyik on April 20, was feted with a miscellaneous shower yesterday evening during a meeting of the Blue Bell Sunday school class of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church at the home of Miss Mary Stahl, 36 Dawson avenue.

A new member, Miss Lucille Prosser, was welcomed to the group last evening. Bunco was the diversion, with prizes going to the Misses Lena Schuff, Anna Miller and Helen Whisler.

The long luncheon table was centered with a corsage of pastel-tinted sweet peas for the honoree and a miniature bride. The shower gifts, tied in pink, blue, yellow and white ribbons, surrounded the centerpiece, and tall tapers lighted the table. The place of the next meeting, May 8, will be announced later.

Annual Lawn Fete To Be Held June 6 At West 5th School

The date for West Fifth Street school's annual lawn fete was set yesterday afternoon during a meeting of the school Mothers' club. This outdoor affair will be held on June 6 at the school. Mrs. Walter Durant, vice president, was in charge of the business at which time a nominating committee, composed of Mrs. James Brownscombe, Mrs. Clarence Fisher and Mrs. Vernal Mann, was appointed.

Paul Sparks, who was the guest speaker, told of his work as a psychologist in the public schools. Mrs. Marvin Adams and Miss Virginia Anderson planned the program. Richard Fisher played a piano solo and Jean Schuler gave a reading. Miss Anderson and Robert Wright presented a comic dialogue. The teachers of the school served refreshments during the social hour.

Mrs. Carl Heilman and Miss Leona Snyder will arrange the program for the next meeting, May 9, at the school, when Mrs. Fred Patterson, Mrs. L. A Schrack and Mrs. Charles Snyder will be the hostesses.

Tri-Gam Plans Party In Honor of Mothers

When members of Gamma chapter of Gamma Gamma Gamma sorority met in their club rooms on North Main street last evening, they formulated plans for a party to entertain their mothers. This affair will be held at the Colonial Guest House on May 9. Miss Marianne Springer, who was in charge of last night's meeting, appointed the Misses Eileen Logan, Jane Sowash and Mary Garver as the arrangement committee.

Members of Delta chapter of the sorority will entertain the other chapters with a party in the recreation rooms of the Lincoln Mutual Indemnity company on Park avenue west next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

Honor Two at Lunch Of Chautauqua Circle

When the dessert course was served yesterday following the 1 o'clock luncheon of the Chatauqua circle at the home of Mrs W. H. Lorow, Vennum avenue, the birthdays of Mrs. E. R. Hart and Mrs. A. O. Widders were celebrated. Luncheon was served to 11 members and one guest, Mrs. Claude Hunter, at a long table decorated with a mixed spring bouquet.

Handmade brooches were the favors for each. Mrs. A. H. Weikert conducted the business meeting, and hearts were played. The prizes went to Mrs. Weikert, Mrs. Charles Bookwalter and Mrs. Hunter. The next meeting will be held May 9 with Mrs. Charles Beard, Chevy Chase road.

Informal Initiation Held By Beta Kappa Tau

Informal initiation services were held for seven pledges of Beta Kappa Tau sorority yesterday evening in the club rooms on North Main street. Mrs. Horace Francis, Miss Alice Ladd and Miss Ruby Bollman were members of the committee in charge. The president, Miss Pauline Folmer, conducted a short business session.

These pledges will be initiated formally next Friday evening at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Miss Maxine Rimmer is in charge of arrangements for the initiation, which will be at 8 o'clock.

SEVERAL of the city's church organizations were in session yesterday afternoon and evening, and one of the regular meetings held was that of the St. Luke's Women's guild in the church parlors. Mrs. Ernest Stauffer opened the program with devotions based on the Biblical character Hannah.

"Flowers, Plants and Trees of the Bible" was the subject of the paper presented by Mrs. M. O. Doolittle, after which Mrs. Homer V. Miller sang. Her selections were "The Spring of the Year" by Stross, "If I Knew" and "Song of April" by Speaks and "April" by Sodera. She was accompanied by Mrs. Fred Cahall.

Mrs. Neil Remy conducted the business meeting, after which supper was served by Mrs. William Sickmiller and her committee. The next meeting will be held May 9 at the church.

Miss Alice Miller opened her home, 335 Central avenue, last night to members of the Mary Markley society of the St. Paul Lutheran church. Miss Bertene Sawyer led the topic entitled "Women and the Way In China." Miss Louise Seybold conducted the business meeting, and Mrs. Russel Hawk was welcomed into membership.

Contests were conducted, and prizes awarded to Miss Elizabeth Bollman and Mrs. H. L. Gilbert. A buffet luncheon was served, and each guest was presented with a gumdrop favor. Miss Olga Luich poured. The next meeting will be May 9 at the home of Mrs. Charles Huck, 93 Massa avenue, and Miss Lillian Damlos will give the topic.

Mansfield Girl Married Near St. Petersburg, Fla.

Announcement was received today of the marriage of Miss Jean Henry and John Lambert of St. Petersburg, Fla. The wedding was solemnized in Paessa Grille, Fla., on Monday afternoon, and the couple is planning to come here for a visit with the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. LaVerne Henry, 570 Woodhill road, in the near future.

The former Miss Henry attended Mansfield public schools, and was graduated from Mansfield Senior high school. She has spent the past two winters vacationing in Florida with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Tinkey.

THEATERS

Women Haters.

Bing Crosby and Bob Hope join forces in "Road To Singapore" to make fun for the cash customers of the movies. Both are comedians and both are singers. Adding entertainment—and eye-filling—strength to the team is Dorothy Lamour, who also sings, and who wears a sarong. Then there is Jerry Colonna, of Bob Hope's radio program. The theme of the story revolves around two woman-haters who journey to the South Sea Island to escape women—and meet up with Dorothy and her sarong. The picture opens at the Ohio tomorrow.

Miss Leigh Is News.

The 'biggest movie news of 1940" is green-eyed, black-haired Vivien Leigh. And any picture with this dynamic personality is news these days. Just before coming to Hollywood to make "Gone With the Wind," she was featured in an English picture in which Charles Laughton starred, "Sidewalks of London." This film will be the ranking attraction at the Madison for four days starting tomorrow. The second feature is "Geronimo," a fast-action drama based on the life of the rebellious Indian whose name struck terror to the white people of the southwest. Preston Foster, Ellen Drew and Andy Devine head the cast.

Canadian Story at Ritz.

"The Man From Montreal," has Richard Allen in the role of a fur trapper of the Canadian North woods, who is accused of fur thefts and murder, and is befriended by a Mounted Police officer, played by Andy Devine. It combines romance and action. "The Gun Packer" is the week-end Western at the Ritz. It has Jack Randall, Louise Stanley and Charles King in a story of a law officer who turns bad man to solve a mystery.

An Autry Feature.

"Mountain Rhythm" gives Gene Autry an opportunity to sing several new cowboy songs and to ride to the rescue of ranchers whose grazing land is to be sold at public auction. Smiley Burnette and June Storey are in the supporting cast. Jean Hersholt as Dr. Christian, portrays his famous radio character in "Meet Dr. Christian," the first of a series of films about the kindly doctor. These two films remain through tomorrow at the Park.

Coast Guard Service.

Frances Dee, who comes out of retirement occasionally to play some special role that appeals to her, is the heroine in "Coast Guard," a Majestic attraction. Ralph Bellamy and Randolph Scott have the featured male roles in this story of the adventures of the Coast Guard service. Also shown is "Oklahoma Frontier," with Johnny Mack Brown in a story dealing with the Oklahoma land rush of 1893.

Seventy-one per cent of India's population is engaged in agriculture or stockraising.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

My father looked over us when we came into the room, and then nodded his approval.

"Your costumes are perfect," he said. "Smart, but extremely conservative. I have no doubt that Miss Carman will give you her highest accolade, that you are 'gentlewomen.' "

"I hope so," Lillian said despondently. "They say she's the most cantankerous old dame in all Long Island, so proud of her family that it's almost a disease with her."

"And yet," I said hesitantly, "she was very sweet to me on the only occasion I ever saw her. She was out in that big yard of hers, and her cat ran out of the gate and down the sidewalk outside. I was passing in the car, and heard her calling "Kitty, kitty" so frantically it was really pitiful the panic in her voice."

"Of course, being you, you stopped the car," Lillian said. "Chief, this is a saga. I'll bet this gives us an inside track."

"Perhaps," my father said, watching me. "What did you do, Margaret, after you stopped the car? I agree with Lillian that in all probability you did that."

"Yes, I did," I said flushing. "I asked her if there was anything I could do to help. She stopped and pulled a sprig of catnip and handed it to me with a breathless urgency.

" 'I'm lame,' she said. 'I can't move fast. Perhaps you could coax her back with this.'

"She handed me the sprig of catnip, and I set off down the street after the cat. It was a long chase but I finally got the cat to follow me back to Miss Carman.

"I have rarely seen such joy on a woman's face. She insisted that I come into the house and have some tea, but though I was wild to see the inside of the place, I had an urgent errand and didn't dare take the time. I promised I would come to tea some other time, but I never have gone."

"If you only had," Lillian groaned. "You always charm old ladies out of their wits. You'd have had her eating out of your hands by now."

"I hope," my father said, worriedly, "that she won't resent your not coming before."

"And get it into her head that all we want now is to get something out of her," Lillian chimed in. "But there's no use worrying about it. I'm banking on Madge. If anybody can save the day, she can."

"I'll try my best," I said.

"Wonder what on earth she'll make of this outfit?" Lillian asked as we were borne swiftly down the road. "And how do you suppose old Bates induced her to agree to this interview? Do you suppose she remembered you from the cat incident?"

"I don't know," I returned a bit abstractedly, for I was revolving in my brain the only plan I felt that had any possibility of succeeding in getting Miss Carman's approval, and I was not sure I had the right to employ it.

And then we had turned into the street on which stood Miss Carman's home, and at last, with the guards instructed to wait for us, we were on the steps of the house sounding the century-and-more-old knocker.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, April 13.

The very interesting chain of planetary activities makes this an important and eventful day, despite the menace of conflicting or adverse aspects. While there is sign of high promise and achievement, with expansive opportunities and enduring fulfilments, these excellent auguries are attended by possibilities of pitfalls, snares, delusion and confusion. Things of subtlety, duplicity and treachery call for extreme discrimination and sagacity, especially in the handling of letters, writings and documents. Read and sign papers cautiously. The mentality and the intuitions should assist in exposing trickery.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate an unusually expansive and productive year, with things moving in important channels for lucrative results and long-enduring benefits. Yet, this also has the menace of many-sided openings for fraud, trickery, schemes and much underhanded and sly activities, particularly where writings, documents or contracts are involved. Read and sign papers with extra wariness and all may be well. The mind will be keyed to vigilance and cleverness and the intuitions are also to be relied upon.

A child born on this day may have much versatility, quick perception and keen insight into subtle and obscure predicaments, and while profound, studious and sagacious, it may incline to expediency rather than principle.

"The Authority on Authorities"

AS CLOSE AS CAN BE.

BIDDING is no clear-cut exact science. In many situations there is no doubt at all about the best thing to do, but in others the question is as close as a question can be. Whatever a player decides at such a time, he has a feeling that maybe he is wrong, maybe he is right. But, if he is honest with himself, he will admit that he really has done nothing but make the best guess he could, after failing to think out exactly what course he should have taken.

South was very much upset with North for passing 3-Clubs, after he found that either 5-Clubs or 3-No Trumps could be made, in view of the location of the club K. North said it looked so close, he decided to pass, since South's last bid indicated weakness.

"If you had properly bid the diamonds first, then the clubs, and over my 2-No Trumps had rebid your clubs to show a five-five division, I would have bid 3-No Trumps," he said.

South replied: "Don't you know that my bidding diamonds second showed a stronger hand, because it constituted a reverse?"

"Yes," answered North. "But then, when you took out my 2-No Trumps into 3-Clubs, it was a weakness bid, since it gave me no new information; you had already indicated five clubs and four diamonds. But if you bid diamonds first, clubs nxt, your rebid of clubs would be giving new information, that the suits were both longer than four, and therefore would not discourage me into thinking you had shaded your first bid."

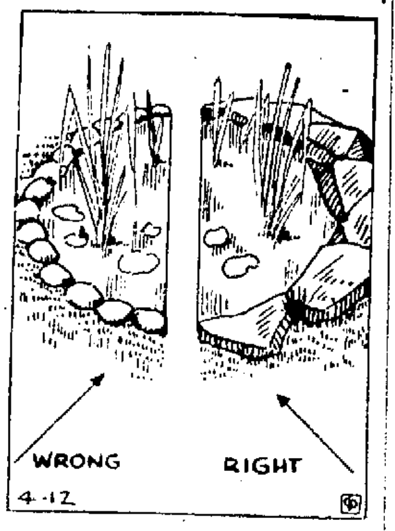
As Dignitaries Honor Galion Priest

Congratulations were in order at a dinner given yesterday noon in the Mansfield-Leland hotel in honor of Rev. A. H. Schreiner of St. Joseph's Catholic church, Galion, who this week is celebrating the 50th anniversary of his priesthood. The Most Rev. Karl J. Alter, bishop of the Toledo diocese, right, is shown congratulating Rev. Schreiner, left, while Msgr. R. C. Goebel of St. Peter's Catholic church, Mansfield, looks on.

Garden Graph

By DEAN HALLIDAY



EDGING WATER GARDENS

When edging a small pool or tub garden with plants, strive to create a naturalistic effect. For example, if rocks are being used in the edging, it is not always necessary that they be used all around the water garden. A more natural effect is achieved if a section or two around the pool is edged with low-growing plants such as forget-me-nots, rock cress, moss pink, or ground ivy.

Today's Garden-Graph shows a wrong way and a right way of edging a small pool. The wrong way shows cobble stones set in rigid formation around the edge. When this is done it creates an artificial effect which professional gardeners sometimes refer to as "the pearl necklace effect." The right way, as illustrated, also makes use of stones, but in this case the pool has been given a natural effect by the use of flat, or ledge stones, such as you might find in a pool landscaped by Nature herself. Such stones do not need to be set in even formation; at various points allow them to protrude slightly over the edge of the pool.

The most interesting stones for use around a pool are moss-covered ones from the woods, or river stones which have been worn by the action of the water into interesting shapes.

GARDEN TIPS

When crocuses are planted in the lawn, do not cut off the tops with the lawn mower until the foliage shows signs of shriveling.

Weeds are more easily destroyed now before they become well established. Hoe them out and make sure that you get all of the roots in the process.
